Atlanta Woman's Convicted Assaulter Again on Path to Electric Chair After Temporary Stay.

Madison, Ga., September 9.—(Special.)—The close of a six-hour hearing here shortly before midnight tonight saw Alvin Merritt, convicted of criminal assault on an Atlanta woman, again on the path which ends in the electric chair as Judge James P. Park, of the Ocmulgee circuit, denied application of the doomed man's attorneys for a writ of habeas corpus.

Immediately after the hearing, Solicitor-General Boykin, of Fulton county, said Merritt, who is now in Fulton tower in Atlanta, would be taken tomorrow before Judge Edgar P. Pomeroy for re-sentencing. The execution is expected to be set for September 20.

Sixteen affidavits were offered by Solicitor Boykin and his assistant, Ed A. Stephens, for the state, to contradict eight similar papers produced by Merritt's attorneys in an attempt to prove that the state's principal witness at Merritt's trial had not been sworn before giving testimony.

After Assistant Solicitor Stephens called attention of the court to three supreme court rulings which held a trial could not be overthrown by defense after its conclusion due to failure to swear a witness, Judge Park announced that regardless of further facts in the case, he could not grant the application of Merritt's attorneys for a habeas corpus writ on such grounds.

W. A. Covington and M. A. Allen represented Merritt. The doomed man's mother, and his sister were present at the hearing, which began at 5 o'clock this afternoon. More than 500 people packed the courtroom to capacity for the hearing.

Merritt was saved from execution Friday when his attorneys obtained a temporary stay of execution from Judge Park Thursday night.

Merritt was tried and convicted on two charges of criminal assault on Atlanta women. He was given a sentence of 16 years at the first trial and on the second case, received the death penalty. The supreme court reviewed this latter case and declined to interfere with the lower court's decision.

The arrest of Merritt followed a series of assaults by men on Atlanta women over a period of six months. A special detail of plainclothes police spread over the residential sections of the city where the attacks occurred usually late at night, was responsible for Merritt's arrest.

PROHIBITION OFFICERS
FORCED TO RETURN
SEIZED LIQUOR

Savannah, Ga., September 9.—(Special.)—The case of the "Betty R" tomorrow will be closed as far as federal authorities are concerned, when the craft will be released with her cargo of 950 sacks of liquor and escorted by a coast guard cutter back to the Bahamas. The Betty R was seized 55 miles off Mosquito Inlet, Florida, last August 24 and brought to Savannah, where her crew of three men were arrested. Charles L. Redding, United States district attorney, today decided the craft's distance at sea made the seizure illegal, since papers in the boat's cabin established her of British registry.

RADIO EXPOSITION
DURING FIRST DAY

Visitors Find Event in the Most Colorful Setting of Its History; Success of Show Assured.

With the most colorful setting of the four years of its existence, Atlanta's annual Southeastern Electric Radio show opened Monday afternoon at the auditorium-armory with every exhibit complete and radiating the spirit of the occasion. The show will be held all this week.

Hundreds of visitors, including many out-of-town dealers, streamed through the big building on the opening afternoon and expressed high praise for those in charge of the exposition and the efforts they had exerted to make the show the success that it is.

The decorations are all new and present a beautiful appearance. The main arena is trimmed in gold and blue, with gold and blue streamers. Each exhibitor has tied with the others in decorating the individual booths, the result being that all of them give a most attractive appearance. Also the standstill display is the most attractive that has been seen at any of the shows, since many of the manufacturers are devoting much of their efforts in this direction at this time.

All afternoon Harry Pomeroy's orchestra played popular selections for the entertainment of the crowd. It will give a concert from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock each afternoon this week, and from 8 to 9 o'clock on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

One of the big-time features is the dancing team of Oates and Mead, which puts over an interesting act including tap, buck and wing, and white clog dancing. Others appearing on the bill are Margaret Moore, Atlanta dancing instructor, with a team of girls that furnish chorus numbers; Perry Bechtel, banjoist of the Georgia band; and Elizabeth Goodwin, a dancing act. Officials of the show proclaimed Monday as the most successful opening day of the show from every angle in the four years of its existence.

Macon Bank Hold-Up Averted
By Arrest of Convict Here

At 8 o'clock this morning four notorious gunmen, all of whom are marked by the police for many past offenses, would have swept down on the Macon and Mechanics bank at Macon in a carefully planned hold-up attempt—had not one of the quartet been captured Saturday night by Atlanta officers.

This was learned Monday when Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant and Patrolman F. C. Foster revealed that W. S. Harper, escaped convict, now held at police headquarters, confessed the plot during the grilling that followed his capture late Saturday. Harper is alleged to have told the officers that he, with Aubrey Smith, elusive and desperate bandit, in company with two other criminals, were to have staged the raid.

According to Harper's story to police, he met Smith in Montgomery last Thursday. They came to West Point the following day and there separated, Smith going to Macon and Harper coming here, with the understanding that they were to meet in Macon Sunday.

EUROPE ACCEPTS
BRIAND PROPOSAL
FOR CONFEDERACY

Twenty-Eight Nations Agree To Attempt Formation of "The United States of Europe."

BY JOSEPH E. SHARKEY.
Associated Press Correspondent.

Geneva, Switzerland, September 9. (AP)—Pan-Europe was born today. Premier Aristide Briand, of France, who inspired the pact of Paris for the renunciation of war, known as the Kellogg pact, successfully gave to the visiting light of Geneva this afternoon his immense project to form the European states into a great confederation.

The infant is weak, of course. Its exact destiny is unknown, but its lungs are strong and its baby cries seem lusty.

Twenty-eight representatives of European countries gathered for Pan-Europe's birth today at a banquet board laden with the choicest wares of French culinary art and the finest wines of Europe.

Meeting after this luncheon under the chairmanship of Premier Briand they decided they would attempt to bring into force the idea of a European confederation hitherto described as "The United States of Europe."

The decision came after the great French statesman had expounded to

STATE BUYS SITES
OPPOSITE CAPITOL

Impetus to Development Program Believed Given by Acquisition of Two Residence Tracts.

Paving the way to expansion of the state capitol property developments and lending support to the predictions for eventual establishment of a great public buildings center in the neighborhood of the city hall and state capitol structures was the purchase by the state of two parcels of property opposite the capitol, consummation of which was announced Monday.

The property comprises the southwest corner of Capitol square and Capitol place and consists of the old Jackson and Martin homesteads. The parcels were purchased by the state in accordance with a resolution adopted during the recent legislature. The total consideration was $55,000. A. J. Dyer, president of the Atlanta Trust Company, acting for the Jackson estate as one of the heirs and for the Atlanta Trust Company, executor of Martin estate, handled the sale of the parcels to the state. Examination of deeds and insurance of titles was by the Georgia Title & Guaranty Company.

Both parcels are improved with old residences. The Jackson property has been rented by the state and used to house the military department. For the present and until permanent improvements are made, it is believed that the state will continue to use the Jackson structure for its military department and possibly move the health department, which also is located on rented property, into the old Martin residence.

The Jackson homestead fronts 106 feet on Capitol square and 273 feet on Capitol place, while the Martin property fronts 104 feet on Capitol square and 265 feet along the adjoining Jackson property line.

A significant factor cited from the records of the Georgia Title & Guaranty Co. by O. M. Fuller, president of the company, was that the state owned one time owned both parcels of property which it now repurchased for $55,000. The tract of land, of which these were a part, was granted by the state to Benjamin Beckman in 1827.

Henry Jackson, prominent Georgia lawyer, in 1882, who built the residence there when the section was one of the most aristocratic dwelling quarters of the city. It was sold in the current transaction for $35,000 by the heirs of Henry Jackson, including Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, Mrs. A. J. Dyer, and Mrs. Sheppard Bryan and Marion M. Jackson.

The Martin parcel was purchased in 1885 by Campbell Wallace for 15 shares in the Ellyton Land Company of Alabama, which owned the land on which the city of Birmingham now stands. His daughter was the late Mrs. Lulu M. Martin and in the current transaction the property was sold through her executors for $20,000.

Carefree Joys of Vacation Time at an End;
84,000 Children Begin 1929 School Work

Smiles and frowns from the girls and boys, respectively, of about 80,000 Atlanta and Fulton county school youngsters Monday greeted the first day of school. They answered "present" to the first roll call of the 1929-30 school season after bidding good-bye Sunday to the vacation period, and the grind of school days was taken up with more or less of a zest. Enrollment in the city schools will hit the 64,000 mark this year, according to estimates of officials, while Fulton county expects about 20,000. Preliminaries were dispensed with last week and everything was in readiness to receive the largest school population of any county in Georgia, and the largest ever recorded in Fulton. Members of the Atlanta board of education will gather for the regular September meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Atlanta city hall and several matters of importance will be presented for consideration.

Faced with a deficit at this time in excess of $100,000 with a prospect that it will mount to about $200,000 before the end of the fiscal year, January 1, the board will be advised this afternoon by Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools, to continue the present salary schedule for about 1,400 employees of the system, and that if cuts must be made, to make them on a percentage basis, thus preserving the present salary schedule.

Another matter which will command the attention of the board will be succession of Dr. McIntosh M. Burns, who is vice president, and who probably will be elevated to president's position; W. W. Gaines, of the third ward; John T. Hancock, of the eighth; James W. Maddox, of the fifth, and Mrs. Paul West, of the eleventh.

SENATOR HEFLIN
WANTS HENRY FORD
TO BID ON SHOALS

Washington, September 9.—(AP)—Senator Hefflin, democrat, Alabama, today wrote Henry Ford asking him to make another bid for the Muscle Shoals power project.

The standstill condition of four-fifths of the units of the dam at Muscle Shoals, the daily waste of power there, the loss of money on the government's investment, and the desire of congress to dispose of the project at the next regular session, Hefflin wrote, "presents a situation now that I believe would be favorable to a bid from you."

Hefflin added he believed Ford could "greatly bless and benefit the farmers of the south and the whole country by manufacturing cheap fertilizer."

Georgia Planters Due To Profit as Result of Smaller Crop in Other Parts of South.

Georgia cotton growers will net an increased return of $21,046,800 on their 1929 cotton crop as compared with the profits on the 1928 yield, according to the estimate released Monday by the United States department of agriculture, which indicated an increase of 163,000 bales over the 1,020,000-bale crop of 1928.

Based on Monday's closing figures, the prospective crop of 1,183,000 bales for 1929 will bring to Georgia growers $114,052,800 as compared with returns of $92,906,000 for the crop of last year. This figure is arrived at on a comparison of price levels, December, used as a basis for these computations, closing Monday at 19.52, as compared with a closing of 18.02 on September 9, 1928.

Supplementing the increase in revenue to come to Georgia planters this year, due to enlarged crop indications, was the price advance on both the New York and New Orleans markets which came as a result of decreased crop indications in other portions of the belt, notably the western belt.

The government report for September 7, just issued, indicated an output of 14,825,000 bales for the entire belt, representing a decrease of 718,000 bales under the estimate issued on August 1 by the same authority.

The upward surge of the market accounted for an increase in value for the total Georgia crop of $1,550,000 for the day's transactions, using the same price. The advance in market value on the increase in yield alone would have amounted to $217,000 for the growers of the state, using again the December contract prices.

Advances Monday, resulting from the surprise with which traders received the government report, which fell far below even the most pessimistic of private reports, ranged from $2.50 to $3.50 per bale on both New York and New Orleans exchanges.

Later liquidating due to rains in the belt state led to a closing range of $1.05 to $1.30 on the New York market and $1.25 to $1.75 on the New Orleans exchange.

Spot prices jumped 30 points in New Orleans to 10.04, the highest point reached in the current movement.

WAR DEPARTMENT MAY PROBE WATER SITUATION

Curtailed of Flowage From Lake Michigan Blocks Transportation.

Washington, September 9.—(AP)—Secretary Good has been informed that curtailment of water flowage from Lake Michigan through the Chicago river has been an important contributing cause of the present low level of navigable water in the Mississippi valley and a consequent abridgment of the services of the Inland Waterways Corporation in transporting agricultural commodities.

This circumstance was called to his attention by Major General T. Q. Ashburn, chairman of the corporation, and a war department investigation has been indicated. The low water level, he said, has resulted in a drastic reduction in the barge service of the corporation and embargoes have been placed on numerous commodities at the peak of the corporation's busy season. The reported reduction of flowage at Chicago, coupled with a persistent drought has brought on, he asserted, a situation that is "serious and the worst in seven years."

Inflow Cut.
General Ashburn reported to Secretary Good that he had been assured by General C. A. Newton, of St. Louis, general counsel of the Mississippi Valley Association, that the inflow had been cut by engineers at Chicago to 3,000 cubic feet of service a second without any explanation and for no apparent reason.

Had a minimum inflow of 8,500 cubic feet been maintained, Ashburn said, the corporation could have continued to operate most of its barges on schedule.

The ship at the effort of one of the camps of the veterans' organizations to limit its membership along racial lines was taken in the report of the national judge advocate general. He ruled that a by-law of the camp excluding as members all persons not of the white race was invalid and quoted a decision to the same effect of a former judge advocate general.

The political campaign in the national encampment was developing rapidly as two candidates appeared in the field for commander-in-chief for the ensuing year.

With Governor Fred W. Green, of Michigan, as the candidate of the administration group and Colonel W. Field Scott, former commissioner of pensions, as his leading opponent, the race promised to be the most hotly contested in years.

Contests loomed between various cities to entertain the national encampment in future years. Philadelphia and Tampa, Fla., are considered among the leading contenders for the next encampment. The veterans hold their encampments alternately in the west and east. Rivals for the 1931 encampment are Phoenix, Ariz., and New Orleans, La.

The keynote address of the convention was delivered today by Mrs. Olive M. Ravens, Lansing, Mich., president of the women's auxiliary.

Savannah Ship Co. Sued by U. S. For $200,000

New York, September 9.—(AP)—As the aftermath of contracts entered into during the World War with the American Shipbuilding Company of Brunswick, Ga., for construction of 10 wooden cargo hulls, the United States government today filed suit for $200,000 against the company, representing the Georgia firm.

The complaint, filed by United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle's office, alleged that the shipbuilding company failed to account for funds advanced to it from time to time amounting to $104,270.21, failed to repay the government for a sawmill which the government contracted for its benefit at a cost of $51,953.00, and failed to deliver hulls at times specified in the contract, with a resultant loss of $22,920 to the government.

Although the government claimed a total of $509,783.26, the liability of the New Amsterdam Casualty Company and the Fidelity & Casualty Company, defendants in the suit, is limited to $200,000.

APARTMENT HOUSE FOR EIGHTH STREET IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Approval of establishment of an apartment house on the south side of Eighth street, 160 feet east of Argonne avenue, and acceptance of two new subdivisions—plans were given Monday afternoon by the city planning commission at a meeting held in the office of Mayor L. N. Ragsdale at the city hall.

The commission also sanctioned business zoning for the south side of Fair street, 200 feet east of Moreland avenue, for a depth of 100 feet. Petitioners had asked a 200-foot depth.

Acceptance of the Donnelly tract on the west side of Cascade street and the south side of Beecher street with 185 lots, 185-foot tract bounded by Stovall, Fair, Saunders and the street car line near the Faith school, also was a feature of the session.

Members of the commission declined to approve apartments on the north side of Eighth street and the south side of Eighth street on tracts about 200 feet east of Argonne avenue.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR E. P. PARNELL TO BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for E. P. Parnell, 70, who died Monday morning at the residence, 811 Ashby street, S. W., will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the West End Presbyterian church with the Rev. G. L. Fleming and the Rev. Claud Hendrix officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Parnell was a leading Georgia contractor until ill health forced his retirement from active business in 1928 when he moved to Atlanta. Prior to that time he was a resident of Athens.

Surviving Mr. Parnell are three sons, A. H. C. H. and P. H. Parnell; a daughter, Mrs. Elmo Young, and a sister, Mrs. W. M. McDonald.

ROBERT CARNEY, VETERAN OF GRAY, GOES TO REWARD

Robert F. Carney, 94-year-old Confederate veteran, died Monday morning at the Confederate Soldiers' Home. A native of Newton, Baker county, Mr. Carney entered the Confederate army in May, 1861, serving in the twentieth North Carolina regiment. He was wounded at the battle of Sharpsburg and was taken prisoner and held until after the war. He entered the Soldiers' Home August 23, 1918. There are no survivors.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill chapel. The body will be carried to Marietta for burial in the Confederate cemetery.

REV. ELLIS FULLER SPEAKS AT CHURCH MISSION MEETING

The Rev. Ellis Fuller, pastor of the First Baptist church, was principal speaker at an oratorical program given Monday afternoon at the Capitol View Baptist church by the church missionary society. The Brewton School of Oratory and Expression, of 1310 Alene street, was in charge of the program. Those taking part included the Misses Grace Presler, Dorothy Miller, Allen and White and Robert Brewton.

Major J. W. Adams Dies at Baltimore On 60th Birthday

Major James W. Adams, a native of Laurens county, died recently in Baltimore, Md., on his sixtieth birthday. Burial was in Baltimore.

Major Adams, who was well known in Georgia, was a brother of Judge John B. Adams, of Dublin. He was first connected with the insurance business of Huthnaco, Green and Roundtree, of Macon, and later formed the Adams-Lovejoy Company of Hawkinsville. Later he was for many years connected with John E. Hurst & Company, of Baltimore, traveling over several southern states. Ill-health forced Major Adams' retirement from John E. Hurst & Company on January 1, 1929.

In addition to his widow, Major Adams is survived by two sisters.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR MISS MCCOY SUICIDE VICTIM

The body of Miss Eunice McCoy, 21-year-old suicide victim, who took her life Sunday night at her home 1080 Blue Ridge avenue, will be taken to Commerce this morning for funeral services and burial.

A coroner's jury Monday afternoon returned a suicide verdict after questioning witnesses. The young woman swallowed a poison dose at about 8 o'clock, while Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Fladger, with whom she shared an apartment, were absent from home, while Charles Crozier, another roomer, was asleep in his room. He died shortly after arriving at Grady hospital in an ambulance summoned by neighbors.

EX-SERVICE MEN OF STATE TO MEET HERE WEDNESDAY

Milledgeville, Ga., September 9.—(Special.)—A state-wide conference of ex-service men has been called for Wednesday afternoon by State Commander C. B. McCullar, of Milledgeville, of the department of Georgia Disabled American Veterans of the World War, to be held at 1311 Healey building, Atlanta, for the purpose of outlining plans for the state ex-service men's not day campaign on September 25.

D. A. V. chapters in the state will send representatives to the conference which also will be attended by representatives from other patriotic and civic organizations.

Pallbearers were Harrison Jones, Strother Fleming, Dr. Floyd McRae, Wm. H. Moore, Robert Morgan, Robert Troutman, C. E. Holcomb, J. S. Slicer, Rucker McCarthy, Joel Hurt Jr., Dr. J. D. Osborne and Dr. Glenville Giddings.

IS NOW IN BETTER SHAPE PHYSICALLY THAN IN 5 YEARS

Well-Known Rogers Co Salesman Gains Eight Pounds Taking Sargol and Is Wonderfully Strengthened.

One of the most popular clerks with the Rogers Grocery Company is Matthias Peacock, of 940 Katherine Drive, S. W., Atlanta, who has built up a loyal trade for his store through his unflinching courtesy and attention to all customers. His many friends will be interested in the following statement he recently made, telling of the splendid results he received from Sargol, the new scientific medicine:

"I've gained eight pounds taking Sargol and feel in better shape physically than I've been in five years."

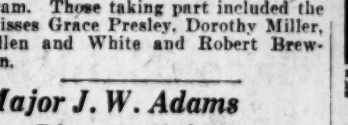

"I was in such run-down condition it seemed like I was a target for every sort of complaint and especially susceptible to colds. At times I ached all over and would have a pain in my right side that extended clear up to my shoulders and the back of my neck. I didn't have any appetite and lost so much weight. I became awfully nervous and weak. I'd just have to force myself to keep on the job and when I got through a day's work I'd feel almost exhausted. My liver wasn't working right, either, and constipation troubled me a great deal. Try as I might, I could find nothing that would give me permanent relief."

"Then I started taking Sargol and I improved almost immediately. I could feel Sargol's powerful, strengthening effects over my whole system and by the time I had finished four bottles, every pain and ache I had disappeared! My appetite picked up wonderfully and I've already gained eight pounds. I'm not nervous any more, that weak, tired feeling is gone and I've got my old-time energy and pep for work."

"Sargol Soft Mass Pills got my liver working right and for the first time in years I'm entirely free of constipation. I don't have colds like I used to and it sure seems great to be feeling so well and strong."

"Sargol proved itself in my case and it's a pleasure to join the thousands of others who have testified to its marvelous health-giving powers. I earnestly recommend it to anyone in run-down condition."

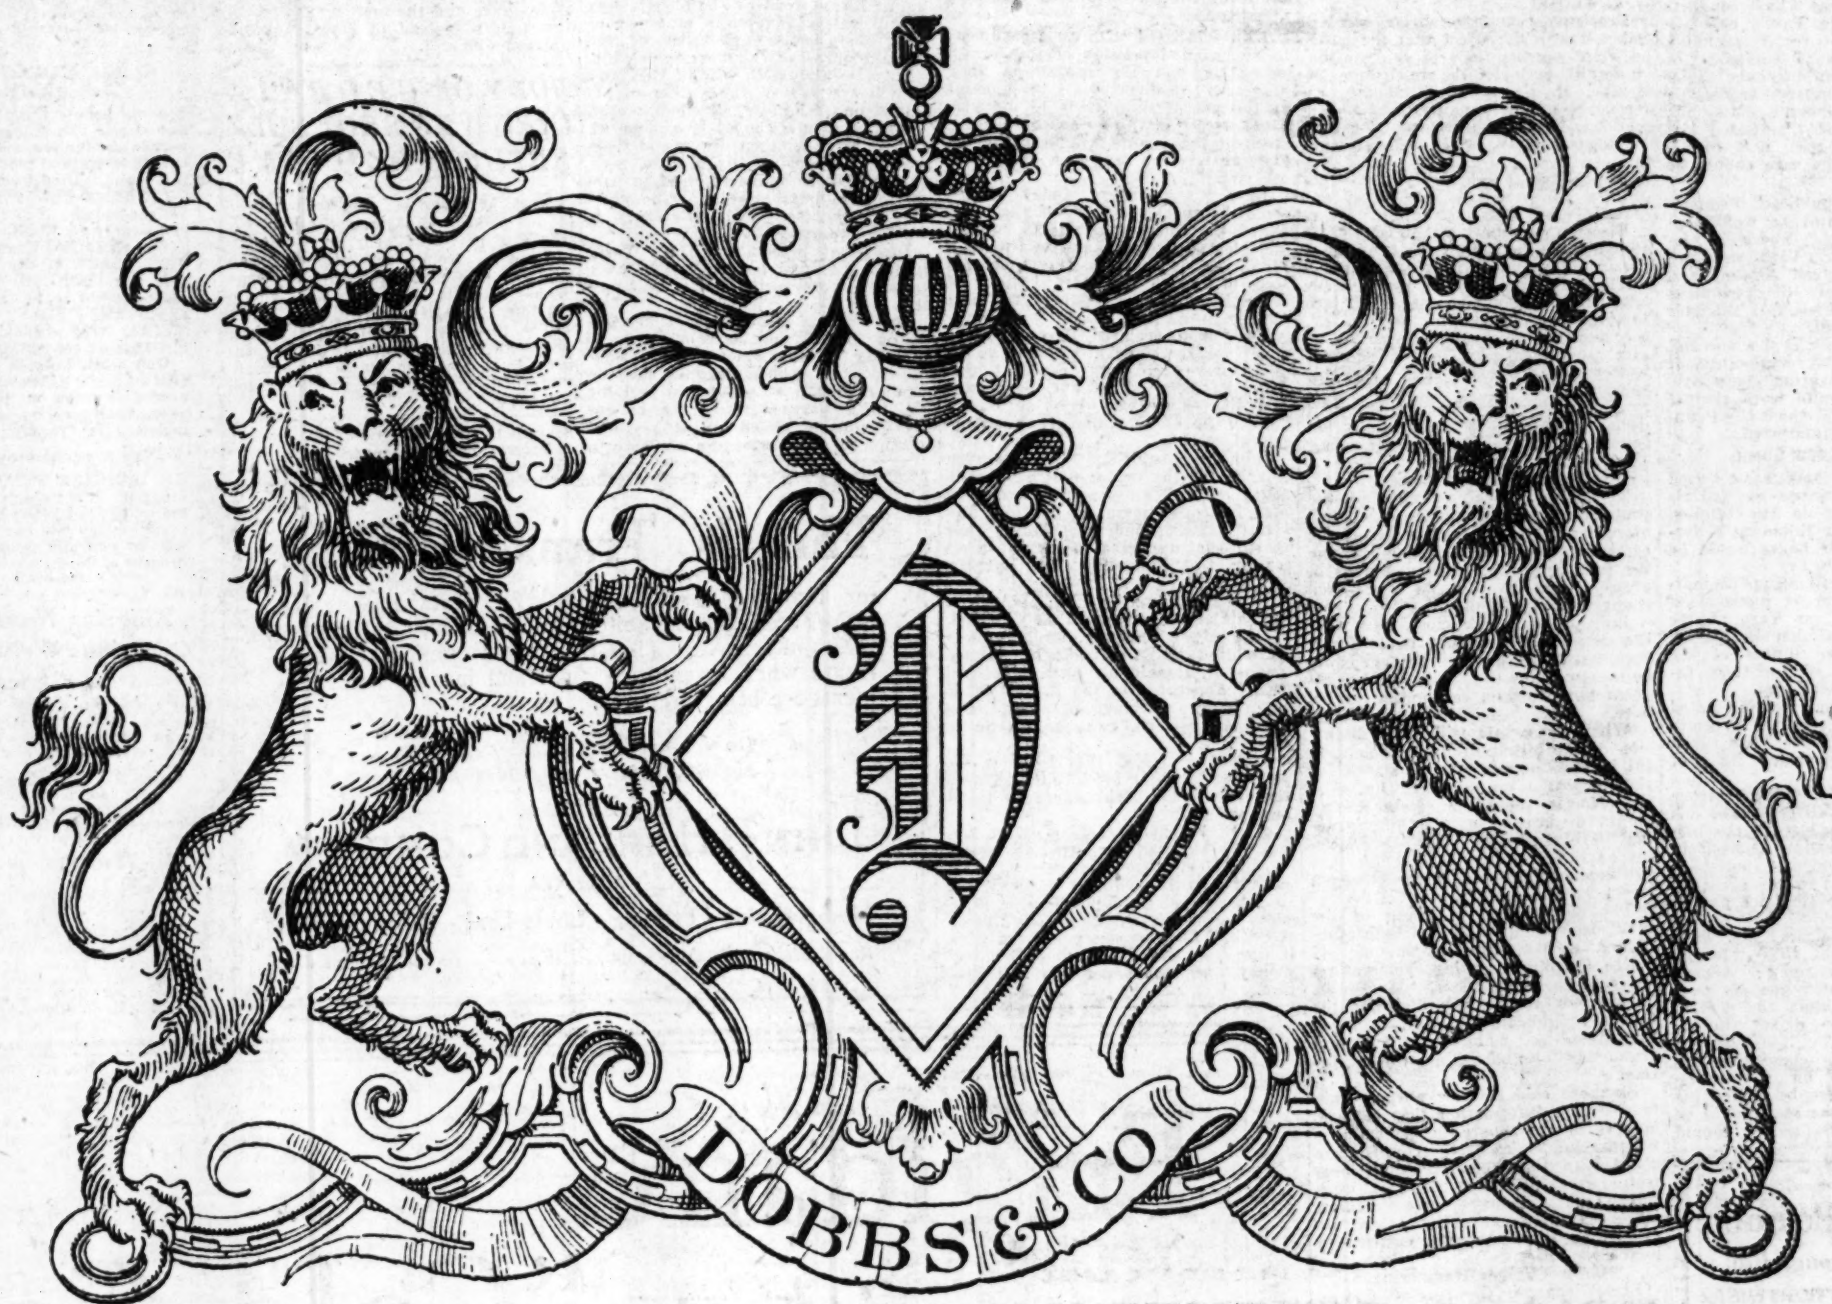

The special Sargol representative at Jacobs' main store, 6 and 8 Marietta St., is explaining the merits of this revolutionary new medicine to hundreds daily. Sargol may also be obtained at all Jacobs' drug stores throughout Atlanta.—(adv.)

DOBBS DAY

AT MUSE'S

IN CELEBRATION of an event of importance to the well dressed men of this city our whole establishment is in gala attire today. Our battery of windows is given over to a display of the new Fall hats designed by Dobbs & Co, New York's leading hatters; our store is attractively and appropriately decorated, and our entire organization is on tiptoe to extend a cordial greeting to the men and women of this city who are interested in the latest developments of fashion in headwear.

On this occasion we are not so much interested in making sales as we are in showing to the people of this city the full extent of our resources through our exclusive connection with Dobbs, America's most famous designer of hats for men and women.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to inspect the most comprehensive and attractive exhibit that has ever been arranged in this city. In variety of shapes, colors and textures; in beauty of arrangement; and in artistic surroundings, this display of Dobbs Hats can only be characterized as superb!

Best Known Way To Relieve and Heal Toe Itch

This condition of the feet, cracked skin between and around the toes; inflammation and severe itching; water blisters and burning, is now known to be caused by a germ, or fungus growth.

The only way to get relief is to kill these fungus germs, which you can do, in from 24 to 72 hours, with a pleasant-tasting, delightful-to-use ointment, known as "Tetterine," prepared by Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

"Tetterine" is almost infallible in bringing prompt and comforting relief in these distressing conditions of the feet, and it may be had at any drug store for 60c, with a guarantee of perfect relief or money refunded.—(adv.)

Central of Georgia Discusses Public Relations Campaign of the Railroads

Few activities of a railroad are so little understood as those dealing with its public relations work. Some patrons, as well as some employees, consider this phase of railroad operation as including only the issuance, through newspapers or other means, of statements intended to put the railroads in a favorable light. This is by no means the case. Properly speaking, public relations work includes practically every phase of railroad operation.

In their public relations campaign the railroads are, frankly, endeavoring to retain and increase the good will of the public—not through the distribution of "railroad propaganda" but by rendering the kind of service which the public has a right to expect. No inefficient, poorly managed or operated railroad can win public favor by issuing false or misleading statements about itself.

Any advertising campaign, whether to sell goods or to gain good will, must be based upon the facts. No such campaign could be effective unless it dealt strictly with the truth. Before a railroad can properly and profitably talk about itself, it must bring its service up to the highest possible standard of efficiency. Then and then only can it properly come before the public with a statement of its accomplishments and its problems. The policy of taking the public into the railroads' confidence has made it necessary for the railroads to have something worth telling the public.

For the past eight years the Central of Georgia and a number of other railroads have, through the medium of paid advertisements and other periodical statements, sought to keep the public and their own employees fully informed, as to railroad accomplishments and problems. The management of this railroad believes that the people of its territory—both patrons and employees—have a right to the facts about its operation. Since, under modern conditions, railroad service affects the lives and living of almost everyone, differences of opinion as to the costs or other features of railroad service are to some extent inevitable. Where these differences do arise, railroad management believes that the obligation rests upon it to make a frank and truthful statement of its side of the question. It is significant that since the railroads adopted this policy of taking the public into their confidence, co-operation between patrons and the railroads has been greater than ever before and transportation service has in this country reached the highest standard in history.

The Central of Georgia has no designated public relations officer or department. The management looks upon every officer and employee as a public relations representative. It seeks to have each of these representatives recognize his responsibility to the patrons of the railroad. It seeks to have those officers and employees who come in direct contact with the public realize the importance and the value of courtesy, efficiency and an intelligent knowledge of the service and facilities of this and other railroads. It seeks to have its other officers and employees recognize their responsibility to co-operate in keeping this railroad's service up to the standard that will deserve the public's good will. It expects every employee to measure up to the highest standard of good citizenship in his community. Upon the fundamental principle of rendering service as efficiently and economically as possible is based the entire public relations campaign of the Central of Georgia.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

ENGINEERS OPEN MEET IN TENNESSEE

Chattanooga, Tenn., September 9.—(AP)—With more than 2,000 people in attendance the forty-seventh annual convention of the National Association of Power Engineers and the National Exhibitors' Association opened at the Memorial Auditorium here tonight.

Following short addresses by Thomas F. Hirlhy, president of the engineers, and I. S. Peters, president of the exhibitors, the convention session adjourned to the mammoth power exhibition which is being shown in connection with the convention.

Machinery of all descriptions used in the production, distribution and consumption of power is on display. Value of the exhibits is approximately $1,000,000.

Pre-convention information secured today was to the effect that the hardest fight on the floor of the convention will be over the re-election of Samuel B. Force, of Pittsburgh, as treasurer of the organization. Force, who has been treasurer for 23 years, is opposed by W. A. Howell, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Indications tonight where Des Moines, Iowa, will be selected as the place of the 1930 convention. Election of James A. McDevitt, of Philadelphia, as the next national president is considered a certainty. The main business of the convention will not get under way until late tomorrow afternoon or Wednesday, the morning session tomorrow to be given over entirely to a series of welcoming addresses and the responses.

declare in favor of Wilson in his contest with Vare, the democrat would be seated.

Democrats Not Ready.
The first test of strength of the contending tariff groups was deferred after several hours' discussion of the Simmons resolution, seeking income tax data from the treasury for use in arguing for or against proposed changes in import levies.

Indications at the close were that the democrats were not ready for a vote, but hoped greater strength could be mustered for the tax publicity proposal tomorrow on resumption of debate.

When the senate will begin discussion of the bill itself was problematical in view of the attempt started at the outset of proceedings by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, to obtain disposition of the long pending Vare case. His resolution bearing on the senatorial seat contest has not yet been taken up.

The day's debate saw all of the tariff leaders of both parties participating, with Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the finance committee and author of the tax data proposal, and Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, chairman of the senate elections committee, making the principal arguments for and against the resolution.

Simmons said his sole purpose was to ascertain information that may be helpful to the senate in determining whether industries of the country are entitled to the increased tariff protection they demanded. If it were shown that industry were making large profits under existing law, he said, then they were not entitled to increased duties.

Smoot Charges Hampering.
Smoot charged the resolution was an attempt "through the consequent delay" to bring about ultimate defeat of the tariff bill.

"The price to be paid is certain," he said. "The consequences are certain. The establishment of the principle of income tax publicity; the opportunity to attempt to harass a few individual taxpayers, prolonged and indefinite delay in the consideration of the bill—these are the real issues presented by the resolution."

Diversion of Paper Funds To Personal Use Charged To Lavarre by Hall in Suit

Lavarre Alleges Hall Is Fighting "Battle of International Paper Company" in Suit.

Macon, Ga., September 9.—(AP)—William Lavarre began his defense in the Hall-Lavarre newspaper suit today by charging that Harold Hall was fighting the battle of the International Paper Company in his suit for equal operating control of four southeastern newspapers.

Hall retaliated with an amendment to his original petition asking for an accounting on the contention that Lavarre diverted a large amount of the partnership funds to his personal use. Hall also asked that the stock of the newspapers be converted "by the receiver into cash by sale or otherwise."

Lavarre's attorneys today stated their theory of the case for the benefit of the court after Hall's counsel had blocked questions put to Fitzhugh McMaster, editor of The Columbia Record, and C. O. Hearon, editor of the Spartanburg newspapers, the first two defense witnesses.

Both men declared they remained under contract only after these assurances were received, and that this policy has been carried out. McMaster said his paper was carrying out a "power fight" and that it was successful.

Both men said they had regarded Lavarre as the owner and had never heard of Hall as a partner until he sued for equal operating control. McMaster testified under questioning that an editorial appearing in his paper referring to "ownership by Lavarre and Hall."

A memorandum by J. C. McAniff, of the Chronicle, sent to N. C. Head, of the power company, by Hall, was introduced by the defense. Dated August 4, it said an editorial signed "Law" appearing in the Record made that paper a "laughing stock," and that the editorial was socialistic in appeal.

McMaster denied that it made the paper a "laughing stock" and declared that the power fight appeared to be bearing fruit.

A. E. Kitchens, cashier of an Augusta bank, was permitted to testify during Hearon's stay on the stand, to permit him to return to Augusta. Kitchens said the bank had no objections to lending money to The Chronicle while Lavarre was connected with it, but that it did object to lending money while the paper was in litigation.

MUTUAL CONSENT DIVORCE ASKED BY SEX LEAGUE

London, September 9.—(AP)—Divorce by mutual consent, freedom for married women to hold jobs, and legal recognition of marriages to incurably insane persons were urged today at the third international congress of the World League for Sexual Reform.

Dr. W. F. Geikie-Cobb, who recently conducted the wedding ceremony for a divorced member of parliament despite disapproval by the bishop, was the advocate of divorce by mutual consent. He accused churches of too great a control of the marriage status.

Mrs. Dora Russell, wife of Bertrand Russell and herself the author of articles on feminine freedom, said: "Married women should be compelled, if not by law then by social persuasion, to continue work after marriage unless they are engaged in caring for children." She said the present law honors "jealousy where it should discourage it."

Dr. Abraham Stone, of New York, favored pre-marital consultations as a means of preventing later unhappiness.

Dr. Bernard Hollander, a specialist on mental and nervous diseases, appealed for amendment of the English law by which he said a sane man or woman at present is tied for life to a partner who may be incurably insane. He advocated legal dissolution of such marriages not only to

More Showers Due for Today, Bureau States

While Atlanta's cool snap has been sidetracked for the time being due to unavoidable circumstances, Jupiter Pluvius is scheduled to come to the rescue today and keep the mercury in the official thermometer within reasonable bounds, much as it did Monday, according to the forecast of A. H. Scott, assistant meteorologist at the local United States weather bureau.

Occasional showers with little change in temperature is his prognosis as given out Monday afternoon. The extremes for the day will be in the neighborhood of 70 and 85, he figures. Monday's range was from 71 to 83 at noon. At this time clouds and precipitation made their appearance and the mercury fell off a few points instead of continuing its upward climb.

HIRSCH ON COMMITTEE OF PALESTINE RELIEF

Atlanta Appointed to National Body—Atlanta Drive Launched.

Appointment of Harold Hirsch, prominent civic leader, on the national committee of the Palestine emergency fund which was speedily formed to raise the largest possible fund without delay for the relief of the Jewish victims of recent atrocities in the Holy Land, was announced Monday.

Rabbi Harry H. Epstein, whose brother was killed along with other American students at the rabbinical school in Palestine, as chairman of the fund for Atlanta and Georgia, outlined preliminary plans for the local drive before he left Monday night to address a mass meeting in Cincinnati for the Palestine emergency fund. Because of the necessity of speed in raising funds for the relief work, letters are being mailed throughout the state setting forth the appeal. Chairman Epstein stated, inasmuch as the building of a cultural center in Palestine, which the recent disturbances have greatly hampered, is of universal interest to the civilized world, and the relief work now being undertaken for the sake of humanity is equally of general human interest, the letters and appeal are being addressed to both Jews and non-Jews, the chairman stated.

The campaign here was formally launched Sunday night in an address over the radio by Rabbi Epstein. The drive is being carried on in co-operation with the national drive.

No goal has been set for the national fund but it was decided to send $50,000 a day five days in the week, so long as the need for relief exists and the funds available permit, it was announced. This schedule has been kept in effect by the executive committee since September 1. It was pointed out that because of the Arab raids thousands of Jews have been rendered homeless and threatened with hunger and disease. The destruction of several hospitals maintained in Palestine by Hadassah is said to have made the problem of sanitation acute. It was requested that Georgia contributions be mailed to Chairman H. H. Epstein, 129 Washington terrace, or Treasurer J. Saul, 174 Pryor street.

Georgia Woman Marks 100th Birthday

Woman Named
Supreme Court
Deputy Clerk

Appointment of Miss Katherine Bieckley, as deputy clerk of the supreme court, to succeed the late William Edgar Talley, was announced Monday by Colonel Z. D. Harrison, clerk of the court. Miss Bieckley is the daughter of Logan E. Bieckley, clerk of the court of appeals and is the first woman to serve in Georgia in the post of deputy clerk of the supreme court.

The court Monday ordered that one full page in the minutes of the court be set aside as a permanent testimonial to the long continued and faithful service of Mr. Talley, who was deputy clerk from 1907 to 1929. In making public the appointment of Miss Bieckley, Colonel Harrison paid tribute to the service rendered the state by her father and her grandfather, the late Judge Logan E. Bieckley, in the following statement to the supreme court:

May I Please Your Honors: Relative to the matter of a successor to Mr. Talley, I feel that consideration for the future of the court should be given precedence. My tenure as clerk cannot endure much longer. If I should now appoint as deputy clerk a young man unquestionably qualified by character and capacity, I would in all probability be naming my successor as clerk. This I have no desire to do. Indeed I feel that I should carefully avoid any act that would indicate such a purpose. Such men are probably available. To appoint any other type of man would be to lower the standard of service.

The appointment of a woman would in this court be without a precedent. The name of only one woman has been suggested. When that suggestion was first made I felt an impulse strongly adverse. But the irresistible force of memories of loyalty to the fundamental principles of life which characterized her distinguished paternal grandfather and which in rich endowment has worked side by side with me for a whole lifetime, quickly removed that impulse. Her father, my lifetime co-worker, has requested me to appoint his daughter, Katherine. There months ago an emergency, occasioned by the sudden illness of Mr. Talley, arose in the clerk's office. With the approval of the court I then appointed Miss Katherine Bieckley as deputy to assist in overcoming that emergency.

My previous knowledge of her, supplemented by that service, convinces me that with the assured guidance of her father and the clerk's direction whenever needed, she would satisfactorily discharge every

The rowboat, seized in transit from the Cobb county to the Fulton county side of the river, and, police being called, Lieutenant Carroll and his fellow officers were on hand when the occupants of the boat righted the craft and brought it to shore. Jones was apprehended and brought to the tower, police said.

Blind Slayer
In Pistol Duel
Tried for Life

Waycross, Ga., September 9.—(AP)—The ownership of a narrow strip of land dividing the property of F. W. Ivey and H. W. Herrin, several miles south of Waycross, and the question of who fired the first shot in a pistol duel, were points on which the trial of Ivey for the slaying of Herrin, rested today.

Ivey was indicted for the murder, and the state is attempting to show that he fired the first shot in a pistol duel that followed their disagreement over the land. Ivey was blinded by a bullet from Herrin's gun during the battle.

The case progressed slowly today, only three witnesses being examined. Louis Herrin, son of the slain man, was introduced by the state, while two witnesses were called by the defense.

STROMBERG-CARLSON
INTRODUCES NEW SET

Radio Receiver Controls
Volume With Automatic Device.

The advantage of reception at practically uniform volume of any desired intensity, through automatic control, is one of the many features in the new No. 846 Stromberg-Carlson screen grid art console on display at the Southeastern Radio-Electric Exposition in the Atlanta Auditorium-Armory this week.

The Stromberg-Carlson Manufacturing Company is represented in Atlanta by the Seville Mercantile Company, which has offices in the Rhodes building. Frank C. King is in charge of the exhibit.

The volume control maintains automatically uniform electrodynamic speaker volume regardless of the usual effects of the fading of incoming broadcast signals. In connection with the automatic control is a visual tuning meter by which the proper resonance point for best tonal results is indicated, and a silent key with which blasts of programs and background noises are eliminated in tuning from station to station.

"Linear" power detection—made possible by three screen grid tubes in the radio frequency stages—is used in this model for improved reception from high modulation broadcast stations; two of the new UX-245 tubes are used in push-pull for undistorted output at loud volume, and an improved dynamic speaker with a highly responsive diaphragm is built into the cabinet.

Provision is made for using the high quality audio amplifier of this receiver for reproduction of phonograph records in conjunction with the new Stromberg-Carlson 3-A flexible armature magnetic pickup outfit. A jack in the rear of the chassis is so arranged that by turning the manual volume control completely off the pickup is connected into circuit.

The cabinet which incloses the No. 846 receiver is of contrasting walnut and is extremely rich and distinctive. Its shape is half-octagonal, using six graceful supporting legs. The control knobs for the radio receiver project through appropriate places in a delicate reproduction of hand-carved design of dogwood trees in bloom. As in all Stromberg-Carlson, speaker, cabinet and chassis are all carefully matched before their final assembly, to give best over-all results in fine tone quality.

"I am so happy... that the last pimple is gone"

The way to the skin is through the blood. Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

You may be happy, too!

EVERY evening thousands enjoy themselves at dinner-parties, dances, theatres, games, clubs. Many thousands more are denied the joy of such merriment and happiness.

Maybe this denial is due to a skin trouble. First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize, but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

A lovely—clear skin—is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered. You, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh, and clearing the skin.

Take S.S.S. at meal-time. You will be delighted with its blood building and tonic effect.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Ramspeck Urges Candidacy To Voters of Rockdale

Milledgeville, Ga., September 9.—(Special.)—Calling attention to his experience in congressional circles in Washington and pledging his utmost efforts in the district's behalf in the event of his election, Robert C. W. Ramspeck addressed voters of Rockdale county here tonight on behalf of his candidacy for congress from the fifth district.

Mr. Ramspeck scored the G. O. P. tariff bill now in congress as "most unfair" to the south in that it "lays tribute upon our people for the benefit of the large industries of the north and east, and he said that, if elected, he would fight to remedy such injustices.

The speaker said further: "On Wednesday the white people of the fifth district will go to the polls to nominate a candidate for congress to succeed the late Congressman Steele.

"As in any other position, experience is the best teacher in congressional service. Having spent the better part of two years in Washington with former Congressman Howard, I believe that this experience enables me to best serve the people of this district. In addition to my own experience in Washington, I will have as my secretary, Mr. Thomas L. Camp, for three years secretary to the late Congressman Steele.

"If you send me to Washington I will not be a stranger in the halls of congress. In the last congress there sat 62 men, including the present Georgia delegation, with whom I am personally acquainted. Most of them were serving in congress when I was in Washington.

"The work of a congressman consists of legislative work and departmental work. The attention to departmental matters such as soldiers' pensions and compensation, securing hospital treatment for veterans, adjustment of compensation for civil service employees, patent matters, getting boys out of the army and navy, appointments to West Point and Annapolis, securing income tax and tariff information, securing and distributing farm publications, and a thousand other such matters, consumes the greater portion of the time and energy of your congressman. It is in this part of the work that my experience in Washington will count most, however, I have had legislative experience also in the Georgia legislature.

"If the people of the fifth district send me to Washington I will answer their requests promptly and will stay on the job every day, rendering faithful and careful attention to every matter in which any citizen may be interested.

Will Stay on Job.

"Edison has said that a man's most useful period of life is from 36 to 60 years of age. I am 59 years of age and if my service there is satisfactory, could serve the district with increasing effectiveness for many years.

"The tariff bill now under discussion in Washington is most unfair to the people of the south. It lays tribute upon our people for the benefit of the large industries of the north and east. It taxes what the farmer uses and does not protect what he produces. I will fight to remedy such injustices.

"The farmer needs relief. The bill enacted by the present extra session of congress may give it to him, but the representatives of the south will have to fight for a fair share of its benefits for our people. Markets should be provided and marketing facilities established for the diversified products of the southern farms. If this is done and a fair deal is given the farmer in the tariff bill, we will have better agricultural conditions.

"Immediately following the Civil War the south was forced to submit to negro domination. This condition was first checked by the old klan composed of the flower of southern manhood. Then registration laws and white primaries brought back to the south white control of the government of our state.

White Supremacy Fought.

"For many years the negro population in the north and east has fought to destroy white supremacy. In recent years the republicans of the north and east have more and more recognized the negro in politics. He has been given political appointments and now the republican party is electing negroes to congress. One now represents an Illinois district, and the party is backing another in New York.

"Equality in social affairs has been offered the wife of the negro from Illinois and thus has been raised a question most distasteful to all southern white people and the better class of all white people.

"I regret the present effort to destroy our white primary system in this district. It is a mistake that may bring the negro back into Georgia politics. We cannot afford to take a chance with so vital a problem. There is no reason why any man who voted for Hoover, but claims to be a democrat, could not have become a candidate in this primary.

ITALIAN COLONY TO STAGE DANCE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Members of Atlanta's Italian colony and their friends will gather Wednesday night for a festive affair when the Circolo Italiano di Atlanta stages its first dance and entertainment of the fall season in the club hall on the third floor of the Zahner building, corner of Peachtree and Tenth streets.

The festivities will begin at 9 o'clock, according to G. Negri, president. Ed Kneisel's orchestra will furnish the music and prizes will be awarded for the best dancing of the evening.

A special invitation has been extended to members of the Atlanta Foreign Trade Club, and from present indications Mr. Negri believes the affair will be as brilliant a gathering of Atlanta's foreign citizenship as the city has ever witnessed.

Reservations may be made by communicating with the secretary, E. Volpi, at the club rooms, Hemlock 2621, or through the secretary of the Foreign Trade Club at Walnut 5049.

Girl School Head Ignores 'Flapper' Complaint

Knoxville, Tenn., September 9.—(AP)—Miss Mildred Doyle, county school principal, presided at the opening of her classes today with no outward concern for charges that she is a product of the young, dashing, reckless, thoughtless, don't care flapper age, thinking of everything but the serious side of life.

The charges against Miss Doyle, filed by several members of the vestal Parent-Teacher Association, were answered by her with the retort that the mention of the "flapper age" is a "general indictment of the younger generation," and that the charges are too vague to be considered seriously. She is 28.

Nevertheless, the county school board expects to hear Miss Doyle's motion to dismiss the association petition Wednesday or to set a later date for hearing. The complainants ask that she be dismissed and that a man "of high Christian morals" be appointed.

Miss Doyle reported that a record number of students enrolled this morning.

Back to Ship.
Boston, September 9.—(AP)—The ship-to-shore mail plane New York, catapulted from the deck of the North German Lloyd liner Bremen, returned safely to the ship at 7:08 p. m. (eastern standard time), after being turned back by heavy fog 150 miles east of Boston.

YOUTH TAKES LIFE BY INHALING FUEL GAS IN GOTHAM

New York, September 9.—(AP)—A 25-year-old youth who registered under the name of Eldridge Tarr, committed suicide today by inhaling illuminating gas in the three-room apartment which he occupied with another young man on the ninth floor of a Fifth avenue apartment hotel.

Tarr left a note in which he requested the police to notify his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Tarr, of 4 North Main street, Chincoteague Island, Va. He is understood to have been the manager of a theater in Wilmington, Delaware.

Henry Crowley, doorman of the apartment building, found Tarr's body in the apartment after he had been notified by a tenant that gas was escaping. The doors were locked and the windows closed and sealed with paper.

MESSANGER BOY FRACTURES SKULL IN AUTO CRASH

Milledgeville, Ga., September 9.—(AP)—Johnnie B. Frank, 18-year-old messenger boy, ran his bicycle into a parked automobile today and received a fractured skull. Physicians gave him little chance for recovery.

Sheriff Defies Tenn. Official; Sticks to Pos

Knoxville, Tenn., September 9.—(AP)—Knox county's principal law enforcement officials, the sheriff and the attorney-general, were definitely at odds tonight as both awaited happenings tomorrow, the "deadline" set by the attorney-general for the sheriff's resignation.

J. Fred Bibb, attorney-general, said today he had nothing to add to his statement requesting the resignation for reasons he did not divulge. Sheriff Chester R. Hackney has countered with a statement charging the attorney-general with "case-fixing" and replying "absolutely no" to the request that he resign.

It has been known for some time that Bibb was investigating the disposal of confiscated liquor stored in the county jail. His political friends say he has "accumulated evidence" to support his demand.

Bibb declined to say what action he will take if the sheriff carries on his promise not to resign. The prediction was made at the courthouse that an ouster suit against Sheriff Hackney will be filed Wednesday or Thursday unless the matter is settled.

Sheriff Hackney is a democrat. Bibb is a republican.

Catarrh Is Terrible Drain on Vitality

Find a man, woman or child who is afflicted with chronic catarrh of the nose and its connecting air passages and you will always find a patient who is most susceptible to more serious diseases. Why? Science explains that catarrh interferes with natural breathing, thus preventing proper oxygenation and purification of the blood by the lungs and also absolutely prevents restful, refreshing sleep. Catarrh is a constant drain upon the nutrition of the body, making the patient weak and thereby susceptible to all germ infections, such as colds, coughs, pneumonia, etc.

Your physician will tell you that catarrh is a local condition, not a systemic disease. You must fight it constantly with a local remedy that reaches the spot. Of the many remedies that have been tested for the relief of catarrh, none has given such uniformly successful results to the physician or attained such popular favor as the prescription of Dr. Runion, known to your druggist as Runion's White Wonder Salve. Applied in the nostrils, morning and night, "White Wonder" gives quick and most delightful relief. Clean, greaseless and absolutely stainless, White Wonder is a perfect example of the finest pharmaceutical art—a joy and comfort to everyone who suffers with nasal catarrh.

Ask your druggist for WHITE WONDER today or mail thirty-five cents for a family jar, postpaid. White Wonder Chemical Company, 52 Greil Bldg., Montgomery, Ala. Our slogan—"Perfect satisfaction or your money back."—(adv.)

Joyous Summer Refreshment —so convenient to serve—so delicious!

Fruit Punch: To one pint of Welch's add the juice of one orange and two lemons and dissolve a cup of sugar in it. Then add two pints of water and serve cold...Enough for 20 punch cups.

With Lemonade: A real thrill awaits you in your first glass of Welch lemonade. The glowing purple juice gives new charm, new taste, new pleasure.

With Sparkling Water: Welch's blends deliciously with other fruit juices—and is particularly appealing if you add sparkling water. It picks you up and refreshes you.

With Ginger Ale: Partly fill tumblers with Welch's—then fill with ginger ale. Chill well before serving. —A subtle blend that men especially appreciate.

For Breakfast: Fruit nourishment, energy value, mineral salts your body needs—all these are present in the juice of luscious Concord. —And what an eye-opener, what a time-saver! A pint serves five; more if diluted, and some prefer it so. Try it for tomorrow's breakfast. A welcome change!

Hundreds Pay Last Tribute As Simple Funeral Rites Are Held for Dr. Jacobs

Beloved Citizen and Leading Business Man Is Laid to Rest at Oakland.

Monday morning, as funeral services were conducted at Spring Hill chapel by Dr. David Marx, hundreds of Georgians gathered in a last gesture of esteem and respect for Dr. Joseph Jacobs, whose two-score years of leadership in Atlanta were brought to a close with his death late Saturday night at his home on Roswell road.

From many points in the state and from many walks of life came men and women to pay tribute to the memory of the distinguished pharmacist, successful business man and trusted friend.

Further evidence of the outstanding position he had occupied in the hearts and minds of hundreds throughout the south was furnished by the wealth of flowers that were banked about the chapel.

At the conclusion of the brief services a majority of those who had listened to the rabbi's words joined in the cavalcade that moved to Oakland cemetery, where Dr. Jacobs was laid to his last rest.

Outstanding Citizen.
The lingering illness which Saturday claimed the life of Dr. Jacobs took from the south one of its foremost druggists and from Atlanta one of its most distinguished and respected citizens.

Governor L. G. Hardman, long a friend of Dr. Jacobs, and one well cognizant of his professional and personal integrity and worth, Monday issued the following brief statement in tribute to him:

"In the passing of Dr. Joe Jacobs, Georgia loses one of her most loyal citizens and Atlanta one of her most active druggists.

"Dr. Jacobs was born in Jefferson, Jackson county, Georgia, my native county, and I have known him since the beginning of my business career.

"My first equipment of drugs and office, in the practice of medicine, was furnished me by this noble man. I have always appreciated him as a friend and as a citizen. He has been a loyal Georgian, a patriotic citizen.

lover of education and a sympathizer with the sufferer.

"As governor of Georgia, as a citizen, and as a devoted friend, I wish to extend to his family my deep sympathy."

Educated at University.

A native of Jefferson, Dr. Jacobs was educated at the University of Georgia. In his youth he was apprenticed in pharmacy under Dr. Crawford Long, famed as the discoverer of modern anaesthesia. From the renowned physician, Dr. Jacobs received what was to be his lifelong devotion to the study of pharmacy, particularly in its healing aspects. He later was instrumental in winning for his former teacher the recognition due him.

While his unusual skill in pharmaceuticals and his marked business sagacity combined to lift him to a place of prominence in business circles his abilities in literary lines also were of note. He was an enthusiastic admirer of Robert Burns and became a founder of the Atlanta Burns Club, playing an important part in its work up until his last illness.

NOT TO INTERFERE
FOR DOOMED MEN

Governor L. G. Hardman positively will not interfere with the law in the execution of Homer Simpson and Malcolm Morrow, who are sentenced to be electrocuted Wednesday at the state prison at Milledgeville, it was announced Monday at the office of the governor. A plea for a commutation of the death sentences was denied by the governor in a decision announced last week.

The two men were convicted of killing a banker of Kingland during an attempted robbery of the bank. They are now in the death cell at the state prison awaiting execution Wednesday.

Vaudeville Star Will Entertain At Lion Luncheon

Sid Lewis, appearing on the bill at Loew's Capitol theater this week, is announced as the principal entertainment feature for the Lions Club weekly luncheon to be held at 12:30 today at the Henry Grady hotel. Mr. Lewis is billed as the "clown prince of vaudeville."

Presenting one of the feature acts on the program at the Capitol, Mr. Lewis is considered among the big-time vaudeville stars, and his appearance at the luncheon should bring to the meeting the entire membership of the club. Those in charge of the program are highly elated over the opportunity of offering him as one of the entertainers.

DOG'S LIFE SAVED WHEN JUDGE SIGNS PERMANENT ORDER

An order making permanent a temporary restraining order granted against J. A. Wicker and Clyde Miles to prevent the defendants from interfering with Jack Smullyan, of 1450 Morningside drive, N. E., owner of a German police dog, was signed Monday by Judge G. H. Howard of Fulton superior court when Wicker and Miles failed to answer Smullyan's petition.

Smullyan alleged that his dog had been sentenced to death by the police recorder on the complaint of neighbors on the ground that it barked at night. Recorder M. M. Holloway, in his answer to the petition for injunction, denied having sentenced the dog to death. Judge Howard did not mention Recorder Holloway in the permanent order signed Monday.

Bass Infant.

Valdosta, Ga., September 9.—(Special).—Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for little Caroline Bass, three-day-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Bass, of this city. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. P. Dell, of the First Methodist church, assisted by Rev. Henley M. Fugate, of the First Baptist church.

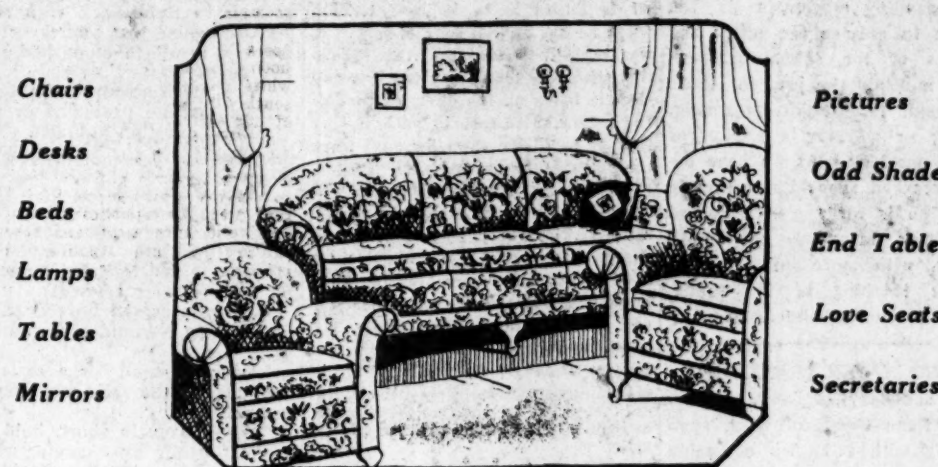

Mr. Draper pleaded for active co-operation from the entire chapter and stated that the success of the local body depended entirely upon building up the membership to 400 or 500.

Routine matters were discussed and some consideration was given to the coming Ford reliability tour. The local N. A. A. chapter will act as hosts on this occasion and will officiate at the field in checking the arrival of the various planes.

Fearful and Joyful Messengers—Go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; and, behold, he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you. And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy.—Matthew 28:7, 8.

Prayer:
"I say to all far and near,
That Christ is risen again."

SCOTCHING SYNDICALISM.

An effort will be made in the regular session of congress to enact a replica of the California law against criminal syndicalism, which has been upheld by the supreme court of the United States. Such a law of congress could only apply to the District of Columbia and the territories, as the subject in the several states is wholly within their police powers, as in California.

Criminal syndicalism is clearly defined as "by spoken or written words, or personal conduct, advocates, teaches, or aids and abets, the duty, or necessity, or propriety of committing crime, sabotage, violence, or any unlawful methods of terrorism as a means of accomplishing a change in industrial ownership or control, or effecting any political change."

Organized labor has set its face and uttered its powerful voice sternly against any such communistic and anarchistic methods of exploiting the workers of the nation. The system of syndicalism is the invention of those radical communists who would revolutionize society and destroy organized government.

The proposed legislation infringes and denies no lawful right of a citizen. The first amendment of the federal constitution preserves and guarantees the right "to petition the government for the redress of grievances" while equally securing freedom of the press and of speech. But syndicalism is something else and worse, even dangerous to public peace and government, and it is the duty of a self-governing free people to rigidly suppress its riots and ravages.

NEW EDUCATIONAL FADS.

It is the habit of craftsmen to magnify their trade and that fact is finding a new field in the business of public education. The national bureau of education reports a widely propagated movement in city school systems to inaugurate an expanded curriculum, called the 6-4-4 schedule. That means to extend the school period from 12 years to 14 years. It takes in everything from "nursery schools" through kindergarten, elementary grades, junior and senior high schools, and junior colleges.

This new idea appears to contemplate taking in the child at two years of age and turning it out for the regular colleges at 16 years of age, which would provide for A.B. graduation at the average age of 20 years.

An ancillary movement is generating among the managers of the higher educational institutions to cut off their freshman and sophomore courses, devolving the studies now pursued in them upon the junior colleges now growing generally popular in cities, towns and many rural districts.

All these readjustments may have rational arguments in their favor that appeal to the professional educator, but in the maneuvers to set up these increments to present systems and their expanding costs, the taxpayers will be heard from, whether they are previously consulted or not.

It will be something of a jar to the average father and mother to find a compulsory school law commanding them to fetch their two-year-old babies to a public "nursery school" to be taught the rudiments of mental drill by a young woman specially trained to that job. There is likely to be some strong initial revolt in both urban and rural regions to such early regimenting of babes just out of diapers.

But in many congested city districts, inhabited by families whose fathers and mothers must both go forth to daily industrial, mercantile, or clerical jobs, the nursery school for their young children may prove a welcome provision in their domestic economy. In the smaller cities and in the country districts it may take a long time to popularize so comprehensive a system of government paternalism in educational functions.

The big thing that sticks out of this expanding movement is the purpose to enlarge the scope and expenses of the school systems, and to multiply the jobs for those who prefer teaching to preaching, farming, or working a sewing or knitting machine. As we have before remarked the counter tide in the nation is for more condensed curriculums in more economical systems, with more intensive and effective teaching of the fundamentals of an English education.

INLAND WATER TRANSPORT.

The secretary of war, former Congressman Good, of Iowa, sympathizing with a known obsession of President Hoover, is strongly advocating the early and comprehensive improvement of the inland waterways of the nation. He marshals the many economic reasons which argue for the national undertaking, the most persuasive being the facilities and economic savings to the farmers and factors of the inland countries in distributing their products to domestic markets and ports for their exportation to foreign markets.

Other nations have proved that it is practical and profitable to use available water ways for convenient and cheap transport of products which may easily lose values by more expensive carrying charges. The Manchester ship canal in England is one great instance and the Kiel canal in Germany is another, not to mention such international cases as the Suez and the Panama canals.

The engineer corps of the army is surveying and charting the navigable possibilities of some two hundred rivers of continental United States, while the coastal inland waterways from Boston to New Orleans are already mapped. Rivers that reach inland have also been or are being explored for barge navigation.

The projects urged by the secretary of war should unquestionably include the Atlantic and gulf canal from St. Marys in Georgia to St. Marks in Florida. That is a ship canal that must eventually be built, so why not now?

A GRAVEYARD GOLD MINE.

This country has a graveyard gold mine estimated by those who ought to know the facts that $15,000,000 of gold in teeth is buried in our cemetery graves and vaults every year. From the time that gold began to be plugged in and crowned on human teeth the amount of it that has been planted in the graveyards of the nation should figure into an enormous sum.

One can realize that the calculation of the annual interment of the precious metal is no idle fancy when he looks into the mouths of his fellow-citizens. They gleam with ivory and gold, so to speak, and the number and opulence of the nation's tooth carpenters and upholsterers confirm the calculation.

Various substitute tooth fillers to cheapen the dental bill have been offered to those whose mouth cogs needed repairs, but the average man and woman want gold only—something that looks rich and handsome on exhibition. And now those who die with gold-decked mouths can carry with them to the graveyard the patriotic consolation that they are adding to the gold reserves of their beloved country. Which gives a new and toothsome tang to the ancient martial comfort, "Duke et decorum est pro patria mori."

That baby automobile introduced in the east will come in handy. Just throw one in your tool box; park outside the city limits and ride the toy into town.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Checks on Oratory.

When a French deputy makes a speech in the chamber he does not do so from his place, but mounts the steps of the "tribune" from which elevation he surveys the semi-circle of his audience, from the ministers in the front rows, just below him, to the back rows at the top. Above and behind him sits the president, one of whose duties is to indicate to him when he has spoken long enough. It was recently decided that this indication should be tactfully given by small electric bulbs on the desk in front of the orator, arranged in such a way that he could see them light up when the president pressed the button, though the chamber could not. The device has unfortunately not proved effective, for the deputy with a tendency to be prolix has always managed to put his papers over the lamp in such a way that he could honestly say he never saw the signal. The president is said to be searching, during the holidays, for another way of restraining superfluous eloquence without resorting to the electric tribune method of drowning it by an electric bell.

Most

Photographed.

The most photographed landmark of Paris is the Eiffel tower. Occasionally the Eiffel tower and the Arc de Triomphe and the Place de l'Opera come in for their share—but when that is true it is a plain case of bad focusing, for they were intended to be in the background, with Mr. and Mrs. Miss or Aunt Tourist in the foreground. Developing films for the tourist trade reveals many things, among them this fact: The traveler who photographs nothing better than himself. A picture of the Madeleine is all very well as a souvenir, but that church takes a golden rule when Mr. Tourist convinces one to "snap" it while he stands on the steps. That puts "real truth" to it and makes useless the display of the collection a real pleasure.

Trees and Cities.

The health of the trees of Paris is a vitally important matter, for what would Paris be without the trees of its avenues and boulevards? The horse chestnuts which were once her glory must now be considered to be definitely condemned, and so much are they generally accepted as belonging to the past that the Conservatoire des Forêts has chosen "Les Maronniers en Fleurs" as the title for the second volume of her delightful reminiscences of aristocratic Paris a generation ago. Many of the horse chestnuts, and especially those in the Avenue des Champs Elysees, have already been replaced by plane trees, and the official who bears the title of "conservateur des promenades de Paris" has just announced that the experiment has proved a complete success. It appears that it is not only the fumes from motor cars which destroy the horse chestnuts, although the state of the trees near the rippling places of the motor buses show how damaging these fumes can be. It is the sulphurous dust which the wind brings from the west, and the rain which transforms into sulphuric acid. The plane having more glossy leaves, and leaves between which, moreover, it passes more easily, does not retain this dust and the tree is saved.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

IT IS NOT THE HEAT BUT THE HUMIDITY.

This is no kind of weather for me to say, I suppose, yet I must say that in every case of alleged heat prostration I have ever seen we found that something ailed the victim. It is like a slight cold, or a fever, or a heavy cold by the time a doctor gets on the case there is always something the matter with the patient. That is, it is really serious, you see, and needs not go further to the diagnosis of what really ails the victim of the cold complex, just now. We are concerned about the heat craze today. No matter what you read it isn't so, if the poor fellow purports to have suffered heat prostration. Mind, I don't say that you are right, and say there is no such thing as heat prostration, for we have the assurance of perfectly competent doctors that heat prostration can happen, and sometimes does, in the stockholders of steamships, about blast furnaces and in other situations where people are exposed to unnatural extremes of temperature. But when either heat stroke or heat prostration or exhaustion or collapse is attributed to mere weather, such as we have in this part of the country now and then, you had best show me the patient, let me examine him, and if I can't find out what really ails him I'll admit I am not such a good doctor as I used to be.

So you see the first rule to remember when anybody suffers what purports to be heat prostration, or when you yourself feel the heat complex coming on is this: Try and keep cool. Do not get excited and pack the victim in ice. Perhaps he is only having an attack of apoplexy or an internal hemorrhage or diabetic or uremic coma, or some epidemic disease, or an alcoholic fit. Unfortunately that the weather happens to be so hot and humid, but do not let that coincidence mislead you. And do not serve any brandy, whisky or gin nor apply a turpentine rub search for a barrel. The thing to do when the victim sinks down and goes out is this:

1. Keep him flat, give him room and air, and loosen any tight clothing around his neck or waist.

2. Apply anything warm you can find at hand, on the feet and under the arms, on the sides of the neck, testing the temperature by your own touch to make sure it will not burn the victim.

3. At the same time apply cold water, ice or a cloth wrung out of cold water, to the forehead, and change it often enough to keep it cold.

4. If there is nothing warm at hand to apply, then, and then only, let the bystanders rub the patient's limbs all ways toward the heart.

5. If the victim is pale and very quiet, try to give some hot coffee, hot tea, or even hot water, with a half-filled cup in your own hand while you lift the patient's head from the ground with your other hand so that he may drink. Never give any alcoholic "stimulant" to a victim already in a state of collapse.

These measures apply in any emergency, no matter what really ails the victim, until a physician arrives or the patient can be removed to his home or a hospital. Notice that everything else should properly be done for a victim is simple and will do no harm in any case.

The Stranger Needs Watching

If He Offers the Watchdog Meat

By Robert Quillen

No man can trust his "principles" unless he has analyzed them. He may think himself sincere and his motives unimpaired; but it is man's nature to believe the thing he wishes to believe and to suppress the faith that butters his bread, and he cannot be certain that his convictions are above reproach until he examines them as the police examine a suspect.

Let us assume that you whip your small son. You are convinced that you do it only for his good—that wrath, wounded vanity and a desire for revenge influence you not at all—that duty and duty alone prompts you.

If that is your sincere belief, try the shoe on the other foot. Would that same sense of duty prompt you to assault him if he were strong enough to fight back with some hope of success?

Or assume that you favor the repeal of a law because efforts to enforce it result in bloodshed, bribery, contempt for authority and official corruption.

You are sincere in the belief that repeal is justified and you are certain that the best remedy for the law is repeal. Efforts to enforce the law against stealing resulted in the same bribery, bloodshed and corruption, would you favor the repeal of it also?

You are a preacher or a reformer who lectures, and you are certain that you labor because you love the right, and that the money you receive does not influence you at all.

Try yourself. Would you continue to preach or lecture, and labor at some other task to support yourself, if you could no longer get money for your services?

You vote as the boss does, but solely because you happen to think as he does. Would you continue to think with him if he should fire you?

Your affection for a certain patron seems genuine, but would you hold him in the same high regard if he should begin to patronize your cold?

Would you, in short, hold your present opinions if you could make a great profit by changing them? And would you continue to hold them if you knew they would cost you reputation, money and friends?

A "principle" that adds butter to your bread may be the product of honest conviction, but for honor's sake you must watch it narrowly lest it betray and corrupt you.

YOUR BOY AND YOUR GIRL

BY ARTHUR DEAN, SC. D.

Not What, But How, to Think. Yesterday I addressed a letter, "To the Boy Who Isn't Going Back." Today I should like to discuss "Teacher's Ethics" with everybody.

A code of ethics, adopted last summer by the National Education Association, was unanimously approved by the large number of teachers who were present. The code will greatly aid co-operation between parents and teachers and the pupils, too, if we all can see the code as the others see it.

Perhaps the best way to bring out the various points of view is in the form of a test which can be taken not only by teachers and superintendents, but also by parents and pupils. Then, perhaps, this department confining points of view can be adjusted to the great benefit of all.

Schools exist to teach the child not what to think but how to think. (1) written by her superintendent, and the proposed code of ethics, (2) by the teachers, (3) by the pupils, (4) by the parents, (5) by the community. To make this clear to teachers, parents, taxpayers and the children, I have started under eight headings, (1) the first which we must acquire for correct completion one of the numbered reasons.

a. The schoolroom is the proper theatre for (1) spreading your religious beliefs, (2) spreading your political propaganda, (3) teaching subjects, (4) teaching children.

b. A teacher should help a child who is failing (1) by keeping him after school, (2) by tutoring him, (3) by writing him a letter, (4) by showing him how to study, (5) by discovering the causes for his failure.

c. A teacher should recommend for her department those books which will help a child, (1) those which help him to read, (2) those which help him to write, (3) those which help him to think, (4) those which have been recently published.

d. A teacher should unfavorably criticize other teachers (1) openly at faculty meetings, (2) behind the back of her associates, (3) before the pupils, (4) not at all.

e. A teacher should teach (1) because she can use the money to do good, (2) because she likes children, (3) because she likes teaching, (4) because it is a useful job.

f. Teachers can increase the dignity of their calling by (1) informing everybody that they are teachers, (2) going about their own business and acting like other humans, (3) apologizing for being in it, (4) passing resolutions.

g. Teachers whose homes are in other cities should (1) show no interest in the community in which they teach, (2) show no interest in the community in which they live, (3) show no interest in the community in which they are employed to the same extent that any individual does who is not a "native son or daughter," (4) place a "kick" upon the people in it "has been that never were."

I do not see any occasion for underscoring what you think is the right answer and sending it in. I have simply endeavored to put into a very short space and in different form the teachers' code of honor adopted at the National Education Association in clarifying the attitude of a teacher toward her position and the community which employs her and the attitude of a community toward its teachers, toward its school.

Yours for a successful year,
ARTHUR DEAN.

BOTH SIDES PREPARE FOR NEW TRIAL

JUROR GOES INSANE AND MURDER HEARING IS ADJOURNED.

Charlotte, N. C., September 9.—(AP) The second effort to try 16 textile mill strikers and strike leaders on charges of murdering O. F. Adenhold, chief of police of Gastonia, today came to an abrupt end when J. G. Campbell, a juror, became insane.

The third effort will open on September 30 in the same courtroom and with the same judge.

The events of today which brought the trial to an abrupt ending came due to start on the third week, came with startling suddenness. There had been reports that some of the jurors were not standing the confinement well but there was no indication that anything seriously was wrong with any of the 12 men.

Campbell, a news vendor and the third juror picked after the trial got under way, collapsed while on the way to the courthouse this morning. It developed that he had first shown signs of mental aberration on Saturday afternoon after court recessed for the week-end. He had other attacks yesterday and early this morning.

Campbell suffered the attack early today Judge M. V. Barnhill, who was presiding at the special term of court, was called as was Dr. John Q. Meyer. Campbell was quieted and he decided that an effort would be made to take him into court this morning at which time the situation would be gone into.

Dr. Meyer, from the witness stand in court, declared that Campbell was suffering from an emotional insanity that was likely to recur at any time and that he was not fit to go on with the case. Judge Barnhill, after the defense had sought to recall the jury and go ahead, decided that the only course left open was to adjourn court, release the jury and ask Governor C. Max Gardner to call another term of court. This was done.

Members of the jury after being dismissed said that Campbell early in the trial had shown signs of mental aberration. He asked one man to read a chapter of the Bible to him. This was done and Campbell went into a frenzy of "shouting."

Key West, Fla., September 9.—(AP) Trial of Dave Z. Filer, former County clerk, who was removed from office last December, being charged with embezzling $10,000 of public funds, today was set to begin in criminal court here tomorrow.

The case will be heard by Judge U. S. Thompson of Miami. The jury of Judge J. H. Harris, who was disqualified because his brother is an attorney for Filer.

A special venire of 75 prospective jurors was drawn after counsel for both sides announced they were ready to proceed with the trial. Assistant State Auditor Hauselt is expected to be the chief witness for the state.

The trial probably will require several days.

GEORGIA COTTON VALUES INCREASE

Atlanta spot also rose 30 points to 18.75, a new high for the moment.

The Georgia planter will reap both the benefit of advanced prices, bringing in greater returns on the bale, due to crop shortage, and will further have the largest crop since 1926.

This indication, according to the report, is based upon condition of 60 per cent of normal, as compared with 1926, 58 per cent, and the 10-year average, 1918-1927, of 52 per cent.

Probable production is 1,030,000 bales greater than last year's output of 930,000 bales and 93,000 bales more than the 1927 crop of 1,100,000 bales, but 263,000 less than the 1,400,000 bales produced in 1926.

The fact that the indicated production is slightly more than the corresponding figure a month ago was said to be due to a decrease in the acreage abandoned after July 1. The report gave a preliminary estimate of 3,851,000 acres for harvest.

Continued dry weather in northern Georgia during July and August was reported to have reduced prospects for early season expectations through excessive shedding and checking of cotton bolls.

The report stated, although in spite of such damage this section bids fair to produce more cotton than last year. Southern Georgia is expected to show moderate increase over 1928 production. Most of the cotton there is open and progress is being made in picking and ginning.

In the lower Piedmont, central and southern sections of the state heavy rainfall was anticipated and considered decline in condition owing to shovely weather conditions which have prevailed. The injury to nature bolls has been particularly heavy in the lower Piedmont.

Georgia's report stated, although in spite of such damage this section bids fair to produce more cotton than last year. Southern Georgia is expected to show moderate increase over 1928 production. Most of the cotton there is open and progress is being made in picking and ginning.

CHINA AND RUSSIA BEGIN HOSTILITIES

leged there had been 19 new attacks by Chinese and White Guards.

The statement was contained in a note handed the German ambassador for transmission to the Mukden and Nanking governments. The note hinted at grave consequences which may result for China if additional provocations occur.

It was stated that there had been 19 new attacks on soviet territory by Chinese troops and White Guards for which the Nanking government and the Soviet government were fully responsible.

The note said: "The soviet government, as previously, considers that the only way of avoiding additional provocations is by immediate cessation of hostilities to terminate these new assaults on soviet territory."

MINES ARE FOUND IN BORDER REGIONS.

Khabarovsk, Siberia, U. S. S. R., September 9.—(AP) Soviet authorities stated today that discovery of floating mines at the junction of the Amur and Sungari rivers showed clearly that China had carefully worked out a military and naval plan against the soviet union after its seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchuria. So many mines were located that navigation by soviet steamers on the river was forced to the northeast boundary of Manchuria, and it was impossible at night and possible of accomplishment in the daytime only by exercising the greatest care.

Shearer Declares Private

File of Navy Intelligence Service Aided His Work

Denies He Ever Tried To Influence Geneva Meeting Other Than Through the Press.

New York, September 9.—(AP) A confidential file of the intelligence service of the United States navy, sent to him anonymously from Washington, was the source of information he gave the press at the Geneva arms limitation conferences in 1926 and 1927, William B. Shearer, big navy advocate, declared today.

Shearer said he expected to go to Washington tomorrow night to appear before the senate naval affairs committee, which meets tomorrow to consider Senator Borah's suggestion that it investigate Shearer's activities at Geneva. "And I shall take that file with me to show to the committee," he added.

Shearer, also said that his activities at Geneva, both in 1926 and 1927, were confined exclusively to the press, and that he had no dealings whatsoever with any participants in the conference.

"I never met any of the participants as a lobbyist or tried to influence the conference," he declared. "I was not directly interested in the conference. What I went over for were the figures and facts that went into the papers."

By my file, he said, contained figures and other data to show the comparative strength of all the navies in the world and the strength, condition and needs of the United States navy.

"Was it a secret file?" he was asked.

"Not exactly secret, perhaps," he replied, "but certainly confidential." In a large envelope, unstamped and marked "U. S. Navy," the file was mailed to him at the Hotel Grosvenor, New York city, he said, just before he sailed for Europe in 1926 to attend the Geneva conference.

"Who sent it to you?" he was asked.

"I don't know," he replied. "Wasn't there any letter with it?" "No."

"Had you been told you were going to get it?"

"Yes," he replied, "I was told it was going over and that they'd better load me up."

Shearer made his statements after denying he had ever in any public statement given as the sources of his information four American admirals. "Well, who did give you your information, then?" he was asked. He then told about the navy file.

Shearer said he was given a news dispatch quoting several London news papers as saying he had been barred from Great Britain as an undesirable alien. According to the London dispatch, he was expelled from the country in 1926, and then returned to the United States in 1927, and then appeared in vain to Prime Minister MacDonald.

"I have not even applied for a passport in Washington, let alone applying for a British visa," he said.

"Because I was informed at Geneva in 1927 that it would be advisable for me never to put my foot on British territory," he said.

"The government has issued orders in issues of national defense for my own country. I wrote to the prime minister asking that, if I should visit England, I would be accorded the same courtesy as was extended to a British subject visiting our country."

"I did so because I anticipated that the pending naval conference would be held in London. If it was, I wanted to go and did not expect to go unless it was. I have not yet made any formal application for permission to visit England."

"In reply to my letter to the prime minister, I received a brief and formal note from the British foreign office, courteously acknowledging its receipt and stating it had been turned over to the prime minister for his consideration."

"And that's all I've heard from the British government. If I am barred from their country, I have not informed them. Let me state that I greatly admire the British attitude on nationalism—that anyone who doesn't agree with them is barred by the press. There seems to be some sort of a leak in the British foreign office that should be investigated."

Shearer, who is head of a marine fuel and paint company, said he attended the Geneva conference at his own expense, simply because he was interested in "seeing our own navy get a break."

When he went back in 1927, he said, he was on the payroll of the three big shipbuilding concerns he is now suing for more than $200,000 in back salary.

"I was on their payroll, but I was not hired for that job specifically," he declared.

Shearer's suit here against the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, the American Shipbuilding Company, and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation attracted the attention of President Hoover, and resulted in his request for an investigation.

John Ringling Purchases Five Competitors To Gain Control of Tent Show World

Purchase Includes All
Properties of Shows,
Winter Quarters and Trade Names.

New York, September 9.—(AP)—John Ringling, noted circus owner, tonight announced purchase of five circuses, Sells-Floto's, Hagenbeck-Wallace Animal Show, Sparks', John Robinson's and the Al G. Barnes Wild Animal Show. The transaction was completed here last month, the announcement said.

The purchase price was not disclosed, but the transaction was said to involve millions. Ringling, the last of three famous circus brothers, already owned the Ringling Brothers.

Constipation and Biliousness Cause High Blood Pressure

If Alertox Fails—
Call a Doctor

High blood pressure is both functional and organic, often produced by over-eating or mental strain, while constipation and biliousness are underlying causes. In either case, Alertox, a new chemical discovery, through a process of elimination, thoroughly cleanses the system of its impurities and tends to reduce pressure in the veins and arteries by carrying out.

through the intestinal tract, excess water in the system which the sweat glands have failed to secrete.

After the first dose or two of Alertox you note a decided improvement in reduced blood pressure, also in your general health, because Alertox removes, in one action, more poison bile from the system than any other known formula, leaving you buoyant, vivacious and alert.

At all druggists or sent direct upon receipt of price, 50c and $1. Alertox, Atlanta, Ga.—(adv.)

Wallace and Tom Mix. This offer was accepted and contracts signed. Representatives of the Garden said tonight that the contract would be binding even though Ringling had acquired Sells-Floto and Hagenbeck-Wallace and that the bouts would be held.

When the purchase of the five shows was announced, it was said that they would be operated as individual units. Although talent probably would be transferred from one to another.

500 DELEGATES OPEN CONVENTION OF SIGNAL SECTION

With about 500 delegates in attendance the 84th annual convention of the signal section of the American Railway Association will begin its regular sessions today at the Biltmore hotel. The meetings will continue through until Thursday.

Outstanding features of today's program will be the report of committee number nine on overhead and underground lines and the report of a special committee on highway crossing protection. A trip to Stone Mountain this afternoon and a dance at the hotel tonight will be the chief entertainment attractions.

The Signal Appliance Association is meeting jointly with the signal men. Most of the delegates arrived here on special trains Monday afternoon and night. A special section of the Crescent Limited brought about 250 into the city during the afternoon.

Monday was devoted to pre-convention committee meetings and conferences and Monday night the visitors were entertained with motion pictures at the hotel, followed by a dance. The biggest entertainment event of the convention will be the banquet Wednesday night.

The bringing of the convention to Atlanta is regarded as a compliment to the city's reputation as a convention center, for the signal section has relatively few members in the south and never has met here before.

PERFECT METAL FOR INDUSTRIAL USE IS SOUGHT

Cleveland, Ohio, September 9.—(AP)—A perfect industrial metal, embodying the properties of all those now in use, is the goal which metallurgists hope to reach in a few more years of research.

The new metal must be stronger than steel, lighter than aluminum, heat-resistant and tough, in short, a perfect metal for all industrial uses. Dr. Jay Jeffries, president of the American Society for Steel Treating, told the national metal congress at the opening of its annual meeting today. "And that it is not just a dream, for research in the last year has brought forth metals that very nearly approach this ideal," Dr. Jeffries said.

The greatest progress so far, he explained, has been along the lines of nitriding steel for hard-surfacing and in the development of stainless steel and iron alloys.

"Aluminum and chromium alloys are, of course, coming into greater and greater use," he continued, "and the ultimate all-purpose metal probably will be one of these alloys. The steel industry, however, will not be hurt by the competition of aluminum; rather, it will be helped through the greater use of metal for all purposes."

Dr. Jeffries said there was little to fear from depletion of Lake Superior iron ore beds.

One of the most interesting discoveries on display at the national metals exposition, Dr. Jeffries said, was the cemented tungsten carbide cutting tools, used in high-speed parts cutting. The material is as hard as sapphire and can be easily welded to the tips of steel cutting tools. The materials at present is valued at about $470 a pound.

Census Supervisors.

Washington, September 9.—(AP)—Director Steuart of the census bureau today announced the appointment of the following census supervisors: Nelson E. Taylor, of Greenwood, Miss.; Marion W. Seabrook, of Sumter, S. C.; and John Thompson Wyatt, Petersburg, Va.

3 AUTOGIRO PLANES COMING TO ATLANTA

The 1929 national air tour for the Edsel B. Ford trophy will be the largest aerial tour the world has ever seen, it was announced Monday in Detroit by Ray Collins, manager of the event. The tour will visit Atlanta October 12 to 14, staying here two days, the longest stop on the route.

The last word in modern airplane equipment has been placed in the tour by the aviation industry and hundreds of thousands of persons along the route of the trip will see for the first time the famous Autogiro. Juan de la Ciera, inventor of this plane, has announced that he himself will fly one of the three which have been entered.

Thirty-five entries have been made thus far in the tour by leading airplane manufacturers. Collins said, and the competing fleet of planes will visit 32 cities in this country and Canada, passing through 20 states. The entry list this year exceeds by 10 airplanes the list of 25 included in one of the four previous tours.

More than 25,000,000 persons will see this air fleet during its journey of nearly 5,000 miles which will last 16 days, starting from the Ford airport October 5 and ending at the same field on October 21.

Captain Frank Hawks, who holds the transcontinental speed record from east-to-west, west-to-east, and round trip, has been announced as tour referee. He will precede the famous Lockheed Air Express with which he has made his record flights.

Giant transport planes, intermediate transport ships, small planes, training, and sport planes—every type is represented in the list. The entire schedule follows:

October 5—Windsor, noon; Toronto, night.
October 6—Ottawa, noon; Montreal, night.
October 7—Portland, Me., noon; Springfield, Mass., night.
October 8—New York city, noon; Philadelphia, night.
October 9—Baltimore, noon; Richmond, Va., night.
October 10—Winston-Salem, N. C., noon; Greenville, S. C., night.
October 11—Savannah, Ga., noon; Jacksonville, Fla., night.
October 12—Macon, Ga., noon; Atlanta, Ga., night.
October 13—Atlanta, noon; also night.
October 14—Murfreesboro, Tenn., noon; Cincinnati, Ohio, night.
October 15—Louisville, Ky., noon; St. Louis, Mo., night.
October 16—Springfield, Mo., noon; Wichita, Kan., night.
October 17—St. Joseph, Mo., noon; Des Moines, Iowa, night.
October 18—Cedar Rapids, Iowa, noon; St. Paul, Minn., night.
October 19—Warren, Wis., noon; Milwaukee, night.
October 20—Moline, Ill., noon; Chicago, night.
October 21—Kalamazoo, Mich., noon; Ford Airport, night.

Two Under Bond After Fist Fight On Peachtree Road

C. E. Young, 24, and V. C. Terry, 34, were at liberty under $1,000 bond each Monday pending trial in city criminal court on charges growing out of alleged disorderly conduct Friday night on Peachtree road and Shadowlawn avenue. Young is accused of being drunk and disorderly on the public highway, assault and battery, and operating an automobile while intoxicated. Terry is charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct and assault and battery. The defendants were arrested by County Police Lieutenant A. T. Butler and Patrolman Cal Cates following a free-for-all mixup.

Johnson Returns Soon.
Edwin F. Johnson, county tax receiver, who is spending his vacation at Poland Springs, Maine, is expected to return to Atlanta on September 20.

BARKER TO SPEAK WHEN CREDIT MEN GATHER THURSDAY

B. S. Barker, executive vice president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, will address the opening fall meeting of the Atlanta Association of Credit Men at 6:30 o'clock Thursday night, in the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Guests of honor will be John Wesley Weeks and Robert Ramspeck, state legislature representatives from DeKalb county, who aided in passage of the Assumed Name law, sponsored by the credit men's association. Entertainment for the occasion will be furnished by Richard A. Von Cato, accordion soloist of the Salvation Army.

CONSTABLE HELD FOR SCHOOL FIRE NEAR LAKE LAND

Lakeland, Fla., September 9.—(AP)—Norman A. Winn, constable of Highland City, six miles southeast of Lakeland, was held under $10,000 bond here today in connection with the destruction by fire last night of the Highland City District School building. Osborne Winn, 17, son of the constable, was held for investigation.

The building was valued at $25,000 and was insured for $14,000. School trustees have arranged to occupy a Lakeland school building until the Highland City building is rebuilt.

FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

For Advanced Music Students
Owing to repeated requests from organizations and individuals for free scholarships, the Morgan-Stephens Conservatory of Music has decided to award three, one in voice, one in piano and one in violin. Members of the faculty who have granted these scholarships are Mrs. Lillian Rogers Gilbreath, piano; Miss Lula Clark King, voice; and Mrs. Morgan Stephens, violin, and Mr. F. Henley Gilbreath, violin.

These scholarships are extended only to advanced students. Examinations are to be given by above named members of the faculty, on Wednesday, September 25th, and on Saturday, September 28th, from 3 to 5 p. m., at the Morgan-Stephens Conservatory, 247 Fourteenth street, N. E. Contestants should send in their applications not later than September 21st. For further information call Mrs. Morgan Stephens, HEMlock 6144-J.

FIRST ALL-TALKIE MADE ON LOCATION TAKEN AT TAMPA

Tampa, Fla., September 9.—(AP)—The first all-talking motion picture ever made entirely on location went into production here today.

The production, directed by Henry King, of United Artists Inspiration Studios, is entitled "Hell Harbor," and the schedule calls for ten weeks of constant shooting on the pirate village set, constructed on Rocky Point, a promontory of old Tampa Bay. The cast is headed by Lupe Velez and Joan Hencholt, and includes Al St. John, John Holland, Gilbert Cowland, Paul Burns and Harry Allen. More than 200 Tampa men and women will be employed as extras and the production budget, originally fixed at $400,000, is now over the half million mark. More than one-third of this sum will be spent with Tampa merchants for the purchase of supplies and the wages of extras.

Miss Velez leaves Hollywood for Tampa tomorrow, and will arrive early next Sunday morning. The remainder of the principals and the production staff are on location.

the Latest Development in Automatic Oil Heating

The ELECTROL OIL BURNER*Quiet---Efficient---All Electric*

FOR nearly a half century Randall Brothers have been serving the homes and buildings of Atlanta with good fuel---known throughout the vicinity as the leading fuel merchants.

Throughout our entire history, our foremost policy has been one of progressiveness, a constant searching out of new and better methods---better ways and means for increasing the scope and value of our service to customers.

For we recognize the fact that above all, this is the age of progress. Each new day witnesses the advent of new and better methods in ALL lines of endeavor.

Now We Add Automatic Oil Heating

And now, in line with this policy of constant progressiveness, we find it advantageous to take a forward step into the field of automatic oil heating. We take pride in announcing the acquisition of the exclusive franchise to distribute and install Electrol Oil Burners for Greater Atlanta. Our decision has been made only after thorough investigation and exhaustive tests under actual operating conditions---tests which have proved the performance of the Electrol Oil Burner to be genuinely superior.

Let Us Tell You More About Electrol and Our Oil Heating Service

If you are contemplating the comfort and convenience of automatic heating with oil, we suggest that you give us the opportunity of discussing your particular problems and of making some worth-while recommendations.

Why not let our oil heating engineers survey your present heating system---show you how we can attach an Electrol Oil Burner right to your present heater? No obligation, of course. Simply fill in and mail the coupon below.

Say good-bye to your coal shovel.

We First Proved Electrol to Ourselves

First we determined to our entire satisfaction that the Electrol Burner can take its place in our line of high-grade heating products. Now we offer Electrol Automatic Oil Heat with complete confidence, born of nearly a half century of heating experience, that its performance will live up to the unqualified guarantee which both we and the manufacturers have placed upon it.

Now a Complete Modern Fuel Service

With this announcement of a further rounding out of our service, to include the new and modern automatic Electrol Oil Heating, as well as a complete line of high grade fuel oils, we once again demonstrate our ability to maintain our recognized position of leadership.

Also listed as standard by the Underwriters' Laboratories and bears its label.

Hot Water, too
With an Electrol installed in your boiler, it's a simple matter to obtain a full supply of domestic hot water all year 'round. Even in the warm weather, you can have this added comfort without heating your house... and at an amazingly low cost. Many home owners are installing Electrol Burners NOW---in order to take advantage of this hot water feature and thereby cash in IMMEDIATELY on their investment.

Georgia Holds Two Practices; Jackets Take Long, Hard Workout

BULLDOGS GET NEW UNIFORMS; BRYANT BACK

Chick Shiver Is Scheduled To Report Today at Athens.

Athens, Ga., September 9.—The University of Georgia Bulldogs began their second week of work here today with a morning and afternoon practice.

Coach Harry Mehre this morning ordered the players to discard their sack pants and they donned shoulder pads and football breeches. This afternoon the head mentor started his charging and blocking practices.

Pat Bryant, who has been out of the last two practices because of an infected heel, was back on the job this afternoon.

Ray Woods, Somerset, Ky., and sophomore tackle, reported at Sanford field today for his first practice. With Woods in uniform Georgia now has seven tackles who are weighing close to or above 200 pounds. Chick Shiver, 1927 All-American end, is due in Athens tomorrow to take over the end duties.

Signal drill is occupying most of the time at Sanford field these days. Four teams flashed up and down the field for about an hour each day, with considerable time being given to slow motion plays.

New backfield combinations are being tried by Coach Thomas at almost every practice. Today Austin Downs was calling them off for Captain Joe Ireland's team, with Waugh and Dickson, halfbacks, and Bennie Rothstein fullback.

Heavies Work For Tarheel Squad.

Chapel Hill, N. C., September 9.—(Special.)—Coach Chuck Collins will have heavy equipment tomorrow to most of the 70 football candidates in training at the University of North Carolina.

This means that the squad will get down to more intensive work. The first scrimmage probably will not be held for another week. September 18 is the tentative date set now. The work today consisted of setting-up exercises, signal drills and practice in passing and punting. The conditioning process will be continued all this week, although the workouts will be made a little tougher each day. The boys are responding nicely to the early training.

Sharkey Challenged To Private Fight

New York, September 9.—(Unit.)—Victor Campolo, 1928, genuine heavyweight, is willing to fight Jack Sharkey for the benefit of the press, public barred, no gate receipts.

Before leaving for Orangeburg, N. Y., today to resume training for his match with Phil Scott at Ebbets field a week from Wednesday night, Campolo told Fugazy to arrange the match.

Campolo was aroused when he heard Sharkey say that he (Campolo) was nothing but "an over-hyped foreigner."

"Get Sharkey to meet me in a gymnasium, and fight to the finish for newspapersmen," Campolo told Humbert J. Fugazy.

ARMY GROOMING TWO RECRUITS

Guard and Center Expected To Strengthen Weak Spots in Line.

West Point, N. Y., September 9.—(AP)—Head Coach Biff Jones granted when asked if the 1929 Army football team will be as good as that of 1928. There was no indication whether the Biffian grunt was affirmative or negative. It may have suggested uncertainty.

If Captain Jones is in doubt and waiting for additional returns, it is possible that two young stalwarts may have as much as any other pair to do with the writing of the verdict.

Ed Sauerz, from down Mobile way, and Paul Miller, late of the Pennsylvania national guard, are attempting to convince the coach that they can fill a yawning chasm in the middle of the Army line. Sauerz, only 20 years old but weighing 190 pounds, is a guard, and Miller, another 190-pounder, is a center. Army needs guards and centers.

There are plenty of experienced backs, led by Captain Keener Cagle, a running, passing player with the manners of an ace and early training as a contortionist. The flanks are well protected with half a dozen good ends and adequate tackles are in prospect. The question marks are placed squarely in the middle of the line.

Sauerz and Miller are great prospects and if they retain their health should fit into any army scheme. Charley Humber probably will get a guard position. George Washington Perry is a tackle good enough to play on any team and Bill Parham, Dan Spangler, Coughlin and MacLean are standing by ready to answer a summons.

LOTT, MERCUR WIN MATCHES IN NET PLAY

Tilden Watches Rivals in Hard Battles at Forest Hills.

By Ted Vosburgh.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

Forest Hills, N. Y., September 9.—(AP)—While Big Bill Tilden looked on from a seat in the officials' stand, two of his leading rivals for the national tennis singles crown were extended to the limit in second round matches this afternoon by the country's fourteenth and fifteenth ranking players.

Having drawn a bye in the first round at Paris, Tilden was in the easy victory on Saturday, Big Bill Tilden was among the 10,000 spectators who saw Fritz Krieger finally lose out to Hattie Coggeshall, of the Moines, Iowa, No. 14 in the national rating list, in five hard sets, 7-5, 7-5, 2-6, 5-7, 7-5, and then watched J. Gilbert, No. 15, give George Lott stroke for stroke and ace for ace.

Lott, the blond young Chicago internationalist who is looked upon as the man Tilden will have to beat to win this title for the seventh time, eventually captured the first set from Hall, but only by the close and attempted score of 10-8. The two were even at one-all in the second set when a drenching rain dispersed the gallery and terminated play.

A picturesque figure as he fought to overcome the Davis cup star who took a set from Henri Cochet in the challenge round at Paris, Tilden was wearing with perspiration and his white trousers smeared with mud from many falls on the damp turf, Hall dashed and seled around the court in the heat that preceded the shower at a pace that forced Lott to his best efforts.

England's foremost contenders advanced more easily, Henry Austin subduing Herbert L. Bowman, of New York, 6-2, 6-3, 6-0, and Ted Avery, Cambridge university player, eliminating Ed Burn, another New Yorker, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4.

In something of an upset, David N. Jones, of Columbia university, overcame Phil Nier, San Francisco, holder of the intercollegiate championship eight years ago, at 10-13, 6-1, 8-6. Timmer Allison and Berkeley Bell, the Texans, and Julius Seligson, of Lehigh university, were among the second-round winners. Allison downed one of the southern contenders, Ted Burwell, of Charlotte, N. C., 6-2, 6-4, and Seligson overcame L. H. Wiley, Hartford, Conn., 6-1, 6-1, 6-1.

The Lott-Hall match is to be resumed tomorrow. Bill Tilden is to play tomorrow against Frank Shields, New York.

Tulane Wave Stock Soars

New Orleans, September 9.—Football stock soared high at Tulane university as last of returning lettermen reported. Captain Bill Banker and Jack Pizzano, veterans, made it 17 letter winners on hand. Both looked in fine shape.

Coach Bernie Bierman sent the men through a stiff scrimmage, rushing most of his veterans against the newer men. Albert Massey, of last year's backfield, showed to advantage, crashing the line several times for neat gains. Hugh Watley also showed a knee lifting running attack that looked to good advantage. Dalrymple and Holland, a great pair of flankers, were in the thick of the scrimmage and will probably be even more strenuous. A damp field today gave the squad practice handling a wet ball. In the morning drill the team worked on kicking off and also on fundamentals.

Volunteer Guard Planning Return

Knoxville, Tenn., September 9.—(AP) Bob Patton, University of Tennessee sophomore guard, who had been regarded as lost to this year's football squad, wired fraternity brothers today that he will return immediately "if everything is o. k. with the coach." Coach Neyland said that if Patton has a valid excuse for being late "everything will be o. k. with perhaps a little extra work thrown in."

Full Turnout For Duke Work

Durham, N. C., September 9.—A full squad reported for the first practice of the Duke Blue Devils today. Morning and afternoon sessions were held with running of new plays and formations for the Pitt game of October 5, when the new stadium will be opened. Tonight a blackboard drill was held. Kid Breeze and Taft Russell, sophomores, called signals for two of the three teams running plays. Buz Rosky, last year's end, was the other quarter.

New York Golfers In Canadian Meet

Jasper Park, Alberta, Canada, September 9.—Gardiner White, of New York, runner-up in the Canadian amateur golf championship, won by Eddie Held, of New York, is considered to be a hot favorite for the totem pole trophy competition now taking place on the same course at Jasper Park. This competition, known as one of the golf classics of the west, is the main event of the Jasper Park lodge golf week which was opened by the lieutenant governor of Alberta on Saturday and will close September 14.

The CONFERENCE OUTLOOK

The Conference Outlook.

Dear Sir: At the start of the western conference football season you likely will hear Illinois, Michigan and Minnesota boomed as the strong teams of the Big Ten. But one never can tell in that circuit. Last year not a single team went through its schedule undefeated, and with the conference urging a comity with eastern and other sectional universities the Big Ten programs become more difficult each year. To say that a season without a triumph is a season without a triumph is to say that a season without a triumph is a season without a triumph.

Illinois will be blessed with a host of letter men and with a number of strong candidates coming up from the yearling squad. Bob Zupke probably will have another fast, tricky team with sufficient power and football acumen to give a good account of itself upon all occasions. The high spots in the Illinois season will be the Army and Michigan games. It will be Army's first appearance on a Big Ten gridiron and the rivalry between Zupke and Voss is undiminished.

Michigan will have a new director in Harry Kipke, one of its greatest backs and as great a punter as ever steamed a punt over the sidelines. Michigan must do a lot of rebuilding, but it has a good key man in Morrison, a sophomore fullback. Morrison is a 200 pounder, is stocky build, who hits a line with the power of a catapult. Michigan may start slowly, due to the seasoning of new players, but by November it will be plenty tough up as championship contenders at this point. Iowa will have eleven of the bruising type. Dr. Clarence Spears will send the ambassador from Norway and Sweden along with his team to interpret the names of his players, but every opponent can recognize Bronko Nagurski without any difficulty. When the big Bronk hits an opponent he leaves his calling card. Spears has some great material and if it responds to his clever coach count Minnesota among the leaders.

Northwestern will be stronger for Dick Hanley has some fine sophomore material. Dick had a powerful team in 1928, but it clicked only a few times. He will have Henry Bruder for the key man of his backfield and there are few better backs running loose on the barred turf. Wisconsin that played so valiantly last year will be strong again, but Glenn Thistlethwaite must do a lot of replacing and the Gophers hardly shape up as championship contenders at this point. Iowa will be powered by the Hawk Eyes may suffer as the result of the university many troubles with the conference. The Hawks have some great men in Glasgow, Pape, Nelson and Westra. They will be dangerous on any Saturday.

Ohio State will be under new coaching and hardly able to reach the championship class. Ohio plays a hard schedule, but will point for Michigan and Illinois and has a fair chance to checking its traditional foe, State, also plays Pittsburgh for an inter-sectional dessert. Don Miller, one of the famous Four Horsemen, will direct the Ohio backs, while George Hauser, the All-American tackle from Minnesota, will have charge of the line. Sam Willaman holds the rank of head coach. Ohio will not be able to achieve its best football again until the new system has taken root and that will be about 1930.

Purdue, under Jimmy Phelan, will boast some fine players, including Pest Welch, but the Boilers always are lacking in reserve strength and the old fault is apparent again. Indiana will be one of the weaker teams and Chicago only a little better than during the last two years. Of course, the scenery shifts from week to week in the conference, and with the margin of strength between the first and last teams usually averaging less than 25 per cent, anything may happen over the eight weeks of campaigning.

A dark horse may arise to upset the odds, but at this stage Michigan, Minnesota and Northwestern look the best.

The Big Ten promises to develop its share of famous stars and all-Americans. Wesley Fesler, the great Ohio end, will be back for more and should be even better than last year unless he is shifted to fullback—a procedure that now is being considered at Columbus. It will be a great year out in the conference and you had better come out often.

JOHN SAFFORD.

Lettermen Back On Tiger Squad

Albany, Ala., September 9.—(Special.)—With the arrival of lettermen Captain Porter Callahan, halfback; Ray Prim, Carl Creel, Sam Wade and Joe Andrews, Monday, the Auburn football stock jumped several points as all are promising footballers and will aid Coach Bohler a good deal in his effort to mould a winner on the plains this season.

The arrival of Callahan means that all of the lettermen that were expected back have returned except one, Hamp Green, center, and his presence is expected Tuesday. Prim, Wade and Andrews are a trio of sophomores, and Creel is a junior. They are expected to play an important part in bringing the Jungle Cats out of the cellar.

The daily workouts have been out to one since registration began Monday. It was at first thought that Coach Bohler would give his Plainsmen their usual two workouts until Wednesday, but the former Mississippi college mentor decided his 1929 team is rounding into shape quickly enough.

The most interesting act of the entire performance took only a few moments and probably required more patient endeavor than the assembling of the entire show.

The stage-coach had just been held up. One of the hold, had outlaws had been shot off his horse and lay there on the ground. His mount, a big rangy bay, stood hard by and when a minion of the law came over to pick up the wounded man the way circled round him in such manner as to ward off the approach.

PROUD HORSE.

They left them and the wounded rider attempted to rise. The necessary parts of his anatomy failed to function and he hit the ground again. The bay moved up close, went down on his forelegs and then carefully lay down next to his rider, who rolled into the saddle. Then, just as gently, the horse arose. The man's hat had fallen off. The horse reached down, grasped it between his teeth, lifted and turned his head back where it could be recovered. Then they rode off. The bay tossed his head and was stepping high.

But didn't take long to do. But there's no telling how many weary months of patient labor it took to train the horse. It takes a year to school a polo pony in the natural arts of stopping, turning, and starting, and of approaching the ball correctly and not shying at a mallet swung about two inches from its head.

It's a hard life the lads lead. They ride hard and they ride dangerously. They are a bunch of real sportsmen. They get their few dollars every day, their smattering of applause, but they probably get a huge kick out of it at the same time. This game of trying to break your neck every day must be fascinating.

DELUGE SAVES LIONS IN S. E. TITLE SERIES

Tampa Leading When Deciding Game Is Halted by Rain.

Montgomery, Ala., September 9.—(AP)—The Montgomery Lions will have another chance at the Southeastern league pennant tomorrow, saved from almost certain defeat today by rain which stopped the game in the fourth inning with Tampa leading, 6 to 2.

A 20-minute downpour left the field in a soggy condition, blasting the Smokers' hopes for ringing up their fourth victory and the game that would have clinched the championship. Tampa had just completed a three-run half inning when the game was called.

The visitors swatted Kirsch for four hits and three runs in the first inning before Manager Eblam pulled him from the box. Wilkins went in and held the Smokers to one hit until the fourth, when another trio of runs was added.

Montgomery counted in the second when Pickett singled and was brought in by Rodriguez' long triple to left. Seremba sacrificed Rodriguez across the plate.

A hitting spree and an error by Seremba gave Tampa its three runs in the fourth. Singleton got on by an infield hit and was sacrificed around to third by Guerra and Buskey. He came in when Seremba bobbled Appleton's grounder. Braley walked and a double by Cueto accounted for another pair.

Pickett had fled out to right and Rodriguez was facing Appleton when the game was called. Appleton allowed six hits, Kirsch four and Wilkins two.

Rats Swarm At Alabama

University, Ala., September 9.—A young army clad in mole-skin drilled on Denny field in the blazing early autumn sun Monday afternoon. Colonel Wallace Wade's four varsity sections were joined by a detachment of 76 freshman recruits, and the field was swarming with players. It was college opening day, and more fresh were due out for Tuesday's practice.

The influx of highly touted freshmen has made a number of changes necessary in the coaching arrangements.

The rats were divided into three groups and given the east side of the field to get their first taste of college football. Earl Smith, last year's Tide captain and stellar end, was instructing a clean looking bunch of 15 backfield candidates. Dummy Hagler, last year's alternate captain, whose play at guard is a brilliant bit of southern football history, had one group of linemen. Coach Jimmy Haggood had the other linemen.

Arrangements Set For Yale Team

Athens, Ga., September 9.—William L. Paul, student manager of the Yale football team, was in Athens today making final arrangements for the Yale football team.

The Yale eleven will arrive in Athens on Friday, October 11, on a special train which will not stop between New Haven and Athens. They will work out in the new Georgia stadium at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and will take the field at 1:30 o'clock on the afternoon of October 12.

Paul, who lives in Jacksonville, Fla., was present at the morning practice and expressed himself as being well pleased with Georgia's new stadium. He left Athens for Atlanta to spend several days making further arrangements for the trip south. The special train will bring 75 people to Athens from New Haven. This number will include the football players, coaches, managers and officials.

3 PREP TEAMS GET TO WORK

Frank Speer Makes Debut as Coach With U. S. B. Bluebirds.

Prep football activities were very much enlivened Monday afternoon, following the opening of the fall school term in all the city and private schools. University School for Boys, under their new coach, Frank Speer, began practice at Piedmont park, near the section used by Tech High school.

Russell High in East Point, and Decatur High also held their first workout Monday afternoon, while Boys' High and Tech High began the second week of practice.

G. M. A., Marist college and Fulton High started work during the middle of last week.

An unusually large number of new candidates reported for practice Monday afternoon, much to the delight of the coaches and to the regret of some of the candidates, already in practice.

Practically every prep coach in the city is planning to hold scrimmages during the latter part of the week, for only three full weeks remain before the opening of the prep season, Saturday, September 28.

Both Boys' High and Tech High have unusually hard schedules and the Smithies will meet G. M. A. in their first game. Boys' High will play Decatur in the first game of the season October 4.

Coach Tolbert will have little to worry about in his backfield, for Hadley, Hammond, Captain Hutt and Boyd, from the championship team of last fall are back in school and ready for action. Only Buster Mott and Carnes were lost, but in Mott Tech High lost one of its best ground-gainers. Several promising youngsters are trying out for the first time.

The line will be Tech High's chief worry and two days of last week were devoted to line play by Coach Tolbert. Glenn Holland, former Tech end, is helping with the ends and Buster Cook, a former Georgia star, is helping with the backfield, leaving the line for Coach Tolbert.

WARNER MIZEL REPORTS READY FOR BIG YEAR

Ben Sloan and Sophomore Guard Arrive To Complete Squad.

By Herb Clark.

"What a day was yesterday!" That's the song Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets are singing this morning after their super-workout Monday afternoon on the sward of the new Rose Bowl field.

With a complete squad—numbering among its new members Tech's All-American halfback, Warner Mizel, Ben Sloan, giant tackle, and Bob Kroner, husky sophomore guard—an addition to the coaching staff—Firpo Martin, former Jacket guard who is to help with the Engineer line—Coach Alexander and help got right down to bare facts to start the second line.

Mizel, the Miami Marvel, has spent what he terms a "great" summer touring Europe, and shows no ill effects from his tour. He has put on a few pounds, but none of his new weight looks to be excess which will have to be sweated off, and says he is ready and anxious to get back into harness. Sloan and Kroner are also looking fit for the grid, and will be valuable additions to Bill Fitcher's stable of linemen.

ODD JOBS.

Monday's practice session was spent at a thousand and one odd tasks. The gallery evidently had the idea that the Jackets were being let off easy and that they would step into the week's work this afternoon. But the summation of all these odd jobs was enough to send the squad on a long season-long trek to the dressing room with thanksgiving in their hearts—and not for a light day, according to the wording of their remarks.

Starting with the usual setting-up drill, the squad split into a dozen or more different groups. Each group was sent through a long season-long involving one type or another of bodily contact. The tackling dummy occupied most of the squad at some period of the day, and sent one man casualty to the rubbing table as Jackson, a soph linemen, stretched a ligament in his hip on a particularly vicious dive.

"The art of moving with the ball when on the defense" was the subject of a short lecture by Firpo Martin to his bunch of guards and was followed by a laboratory period which kept the huskies wide awake. Martin grounded the ball and snapped it from a wait filled with tension. The boys were instructed to "get gone" with the ball, but it was a nervous crew of linemen who finally were told that they had had enough.

That Tech will have a definite pass attack this fall was once more indicated when Alex took the backs and ends, with a center, under his wing for a long session on passes to close the day.

Passes were being flung by every member of the backfield to every eligible receiver in every conceivable position. And they were being flung like a volley of bullets and snatched out of the air with all the skill and nonchalance of midseason.

GERMAN TANKER AFIRE IN DANGER.

Northforeland, England, September 7.—(AP)—Wireless messages here report a German oil tanker afire in the North sea near the Straits of Dover and in danger of explosion.

The American steamer Brush wireless reported the burning vessel, the crew of which was standing by in a launch not asking for assistance. The name of the vessel was not visible.

The British steamer Imber later reported a German naval or government tanker was afire with the crew standing by in a small boat and that the tanker was expected to explode.

BRITISH TANKER EXTINGUISHES FIRE.

London, September 9.—(AP)—A message to Lloyd's tonight said that a fire, which broke out on the British tank steamer Vimeira while it was proceeding to drydock in Rotterdam, Holland, today had been extinguished. The message gave no other details.

CAPTAIN, CREW ABANDON STEAMER.

Vigo, Spain, September 9.—(AP)—The British Nelson line passenger steamer Highland Pride was abandoned by Captain C. Alford and his crew tonight. The commandant of marine here said that the ship and her cargo of 3,000 tons of general merchandise together with a deckload of cattle would be a total loss.

The ship, en route to Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro, ran ashore on Piedras Negras reef just outside the harbor early today.

The passengers with most of their baggage were landed without difficulty by the boats of the vessel. Although the crew opened several holes in the forward part of the steamer, efforts went on all day to salvage the ship and its cargo and Captain Alford remained aboard with some of the 150 men of the crew to direct the operations.

Tugs failed to draw the ship off and the burning, on the beach, opened more holes in the bottom so that late tonight she was far down by the head with water standing in several holds and the engine room.

PAST WEEK WITNESSES MANY DISASTERS.

S. S. Kuru, capsized Saturday off Tammerefs, Finland, with estimated loss of 100 lives, 20 rescued.

S. S. Dan sank Sunday in Baltic off Danzig, one rescued out of crew of thirty-five.

Tanker Vimeira, caught fire at Rotterdam, Monday, 3 killed, 8 missing.

S. S. Highland Pride, said to be "total loss" after striking reef Monday near Vigo, Spain; 98 passengers and 150 crew rescued and landed unassisted.

S. S. Heimdahl, wrecked on rock northeast of Stockholm on Monday. The 70 on board escaped to shore.

Unmanned German tanker reported by two vessels on fire in the North Sea on Monday. The crew were standing by in boats and not in need of assistance.

Schooner Santa Quita, sank off Nova Scotia and crew were landed Monday at Halifax by rescuing steamer.

S. S. American Legion, sailed from Montevideo for New York after temporary repairs necessitated by grounding in fog at harbor entrance several days ago.

Tried for Old Killing.

Madisonville, Tenn., September 9.—(AP)—Eleven years ago two boys fought out a quarrel over a girl. One was killed. Today Lester Hunter, 28, went on trial charged with shooting Gus Kirby in 1918. The sheriff said Hunter and Kirby accused each other of "stealing the other's girl" before the shooting. Hunter escaped and was arrested last fall in Florida. He has been in jail here since.

MICKEY WALKER, JAILED FOR DRUNK, PAYS $20 FINE

Los Angeles, September 9.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, middleweight boxing champion, after spending several hours in the Hollywood jail following his arrest on charges of being intoxicated and possessing liquor, pleaded guilty to the first charge in municipal court today and paid a fine of $20. He was released after his manager, Jack Kearns, deposited $250 bail pending a hearing on the second charge.

Walker and three companions of a Whitney avenue apartment house brought the police to quell an asserted drunken melee. The police reported they found Walker fighting with his three companions in the apartment of Miss Dorothy Davis, in which furniture, doors and windows were found broken.

The trio arrested with Walker were Gordon H. Sweeney, film director; Arthur Housman, film actor, and Ray Hallor, also an actor. Charges similar to those against Walker were brought against the trio. Police allowed Miss Davis to remain in her apartment because of an injured foot the result of the melee.

EFFECTIVE September 15th, low rate one-way and round-trip coach fares between Atlanta, Macon and intermediate points will be discontinued.

Tickets good in coaches or sleeping and parlor cars are being sold between all points on Central of Georgia Railway, where fare is $5.40 or less, at rate of one and one-half fares for round-trip, tickets good one day in addition to date of sale, and one and one-half fares for round-trip, tickets good five days in addition to date of sale.

INQUEST INTO MARLIN KILLING IS POSTPONED

Mystery Thickens When Detective Chief Poole Asks That One-Day Delay Be Granted.

The mystery which has surrounded the killing last Saturday of Frank E. Marlin, 66-year-old engineer, thickened Monday when the coroner's inquest into the death was postponed at the request of Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole.

After Coroner Paul Donohoe had taken his jury to the abandoned reservoir near the end of Parsons street, where the body was found, an attempt to reconstruct the killing was made. Before a verdict could be rendered, however, Chief Poole requested that the decision be delayed until today and Coroner Donohoe set 3 o'clock this afternoon as the hour for the official inquiry.

When questioned on his action the police head refused to reveal the cause for his opinion but said that "something might develop" which would change the complexion of the inquest. While he refused to elaborate on this, he believed, but Marlin's body was recovered before time for the inquest.

Detectives John Lowe and John Davis Monday admitted that the brutality of the killing left some room for doubt as to the type of killer. A robber finding it necessary to shoot, ordinarily would have fired but once, they believed, but Marlin's body was riddled with five bullets all fired from close range, as if in a maniacal fury. The theory that the act might have been that of an insane person was weakened by the fact that the body was robbed.

The officers said that the old reservoir showed evidence of having been used by negroes for gambling purposes but none who had been there Saturday could be found.

Members of his family all said that Marlin had no known enemies.

Funeral services for the slain man were conducted Monday afternoon at the chapel of the J. Austin Dillon Company by the Rev. A. T. Rowe. Burial was in West View cemetery.

Miss Hicky Weds Dr. Grant, Of Savannah, at Home Ceremony

Exquisite beauty marked the marriage yesterday afternoon of Miss Peggy Hicky, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hickey, to Dr. Theron Arthur Grant, of Savannah, Ga., formerly of Eros, La., which was solemnized at the home of the bride on Vedado Way at 5 o'clock. At the far end of the living room was a mass of green foliage and palms, interspersed with tall white pedestal baskets of Easter lilies, alternating with seven-branched candelabra, the white burning tapers lending a soft charm to the reception rooms where the guests assembled. Preceding the entrance of the bride party a program of nuptial music was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Mason Williams, of Monroe, Ga., cousins of the bride. Mr. Williams sang "Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. Williams at the piano. During the service Victor Herbert's "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" was softly played. Upon the approach of the bride party Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Mrs. Williams. Mrs. Williams was costumed in an ensemble of woodbrown crepe with hat and accessories to match. Rev. Homer Thompson, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, performed the ceremony before a representative gathering of relatives and friends. The groom was attended by his best man, Dr. Thomas M. Adams, of Montezma, Ga. The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Carl Alexander Fries, who acted as matron of honor. She was gownned in an exquisite model of blackberry satin, deeply shirred in the princess effect, tightly fitted and falling to an uneven hemline. Her sleeves were long and shirred in a tightly-fitting effect, and she wore a stole felt hat of the same blackberry shade, her slippers being of blackberry suede. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses and blue and lavender anemones and swansons, tied with a sunset-colored ribbon.

Beautiful Bride.
The beautiful bride, who entered with her only brother, Daniel Whitehead Hicky, who gave her in marriage, was gownned in a Lucile model of jungle green transparent velvet, the long blouse effect covering a tightly-shirred bodice. With this she wore a jungle-green tightly fitted felt hat. Her flowers were orchids and lilies of the valley, rade in shower effect, the long ivory ribbons caught at intervals with lilies of the valley and orange blossoms. She carried an exquisite real lace handkerchief carried by her mother at her wedding many years ago.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Raymond Thompson, aunt of the bride, who wore black and grey broadcloth chignon, with a small black suede hat. Her flowers were pink roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. William L. Bicknell, sister of the bride, wore a gown of saffron and blue chignon, her flowers being yellow roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. William Marion Gaines, who also assisted in entertaining wore black lace, and Mrs. Fred B. Thompson, cousin of the bride, was gownned in dark blue crepe with hat to match. The rooms were decorated in large silver baskets of pink and yellow roses, the windows being outlined in cascades of southern smilax.

Mrs. William L. Bicknell, Mrs. Edward Kehoe, of Memphis, Tenn., kept the bride's book. Mrs. Kehoe was gownned in a model of rose transparent velvet embroidered in rhinestones. The dining room was effectively decorated in green and white, white gladioli and fern and palms predominating. Presiding at the punch bowls, which were embedded in mounds of pink roses and snapdragons, were Miss Sallie Manning, Miss Hazel Bennett, Miss Mary Lee Nash and Mrs. George Cowan, of Tampa, Florida.

Wedding Trip.
After the reception, Dr. Grant and his bride left for a motor trip through the mountains of North Carolina, and after a stay in Asheville and other points of interest, they will return to Savannah, where Dr. Grant is associated in business, and where they will be attractive additions to the social and cultural life of the city. The bride's going away costume was a rosewood flannel made with a long coat, the skirt being plaited in beautiful design. With this she wore a rosewood Agnes model felt hat, tightly fitting, and her shoes and gloves were of tan. She wore a shoulder bouquet of orchids.

Miss Shook and Mr. Johnson To Wed in Fall

Cordial social interest centers in the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Paschal G. Shook, of Birmingham, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Hansell Shook, to Allen Acree Johnson, a popular young clubman and business man of the same city, and their marriage will be solemnized in the fall.

Miss Shook has enjoyed unusual popularity in Atlanta, having visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maddox on Paces Ferry road with Mrs. Robert Maddox, Jr., who was formerly Miss Cecile Gray Johnston, of Birmingham. Miss Shook has also visited Mrs. John Grant, Jr., who was before her marriage Miss Josephine Connors, of Birmingham. She was numbered among the visiting belles in attendance upon many of the football games played during last fall at Grant field. She is unusually beautiful, her beauty being of the blonde type. Miss Shook attended Miss Spence's fashionable school in New York city and afterward she traveled extensively abroad. Miss Shook, with Mrs. Maddox, Jr., and Miss Lucy Eastwood, of Birmingham, studied for a year in Paris, completing her education at a famous school in the French capital.

Broken Hip Not To Halt Plans for Celebration Of Golden Anniversary

An accident in which she received a fracture of the hip is not to prevent Mrs. F. J. Spratling, of 81 East Seventeenth street, from joining her husband, who is the veteran clerk of the criminal division of the Fulton superior court, in the celebration of the golden wedding anniversary on October 2.

Plans for the occasion had been in the making for weeks, but on Sunday Mrs. Spratling fell in the bedroom at her home and fractured her hip. The doctors said that by the time for the celebration Mrs. Spratling would be able to take part, although she would have to do so from a wheel chair or a cot.

Former Atlantan Is Feted Guest

Mrs. T. T. Stevens, of Miami, Fla., who is the guest of her son, Lawton Stevens, is being honored at a series of social affairs during her visit here by her innumerable Atlanta friends. Mrs. Stevens formerly resided in Atlanta and was prominently identified with the city's social, civic and club life, having held many offices of distinct honor in the state's club realms. Mrs. Stevens will be honor guest today at an informal tea at Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club, given by Mrs. John K. Otley.

McCrary will sponsor a cooking school at the club-house September 23-27, from 10 to 12 o'clock each day. The school will be conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth Stanfield. Tickets for the entire school are $1, or 25 cents a day. The public is invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitner To Be Honored.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitner Milner will entertain at a buffet supper Thursday evening at their home on West Peachtree, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitner, whose marriage was a recent event. The guest list will include the following members of the Whitner and Milner families: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitner, Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Milner, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Milner, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Spann Milner, John Whitner, and Willis Milner III.

Atlanta Lauded As Distributing Center of South

"The New York of the South" is the way in which Atlanta is described in "Great Markets of America," a 400-page book, recently published by the General Outdoor Advertising Company. Attention is called to the high place Atlanta now occupies and an even greater future is promised.

Portions of the chapter on Atlanta follow: "Atlanta, the strategic manufacturing and distributing center of the south, lives up to its name, the Gate City of the South." This advantageous business position can be compared to the wrist of a hand whose fingers reach the five principal ports of the Gulf and the south Atlantic coast.

"Atlanta is situated at the foot of the Appalachian chain of mountains on the ridge dividing the water shed of the Atlantic ocean from that of the Gulf of Mexico at an altitude of 1,050 feet.

"The purpose of the founding of Atlanta was to afford a railway highway, or rather a series of highways, between the great Mississippi valley and the Atlantic seaboard, hence the name of Atlanta, the word coined from Atlanta.

"In 1864, General W. T. Sherman left Atlanta in ashes after deporting its inhabitants. Today you see how the men who fought under Lee and Johnson and their sons, solved the problem of reconstruction.

"Atlanta today is the financial dynamo of the southeast and there is only one city in Georgia that has half its population. The next three leading cities have less than one-quarter of Atlanta's population. The first city of Georgia is also the state capital and is one of the 12 federal reserve bank cities of the United States. "Atlanta has been called the New York of the south. Its manufacturing enterprises grow steadily. Naturally it is Georgia's first city, and its products are four times that of its nearest rival city, Columbus. The city is a gateway to a trade area embracing a territory where the purchase and industrial expansion are commanding the attention of the nation."

MARIST COLLEGE REPORTS LARGEST ROLL IN HISTORY

Opening of the new term at Marist college Monday marked the thirtieth successive school year of the well known educational institution. Enrollment records indicated the attendance of more new pupils than has been recorded in recent years, while practically all old students returned to complete their courses, officials of the school stated.

The opening session found a number of improvements at the institution in way of remodeled structures and enlarged program in the military and athletic departments.

Few changes were noted in the faculty. The Rev. F. M. Peery, S. M. A., and the Rev. M. Sullivan, S. M. R. A., have been appointed to the faculty to fill the places vacated by the Rev. J. L. Gerrets and L. Em-

FEET FELT TOO HEAVY; BILIOUS

Georgian Says He Had a Dull, Tired Feeling; Dizzy and Nauseated.

Draketown, Ga.—"I am fifty-two years of age, and I remember my father taking Black-Draught and giving it to us when I was just a child," says the Rev. J. J. Wisener, of this place. "He gave it to us when we were bilious or had colds. After I grew up, I kept on taking Black-Draught, for I had never found anything better. It gives good satisfaction."

"When I would get bilious, I would feel like shuffling along instead of walking. My feet felt too heavy to lift. I had such a dull, tired feeling, and I would feel dizzy and nauseated like I couldn't hold my head up."

"I found how much the Black-Draught helped me, and I took it. I quit having these bad spells, and find now I only have to take a few doses and I am good as new. Don't have to take much now. My health is good."

Thedford's Black-Draught is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, of highest quality, finely powdered, carefully combined and packaged by automatic machinery.

Dr. Harvey Cox Addresses Woman's Club at Fall Meeting

Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory university, was the principal speaker at the opening meeting of the Atlanta Woman's Club Monday afternoon. Dr. Cox discussed in a very interesting and instructive way the present status of international relations. Mrs. John R. Hornady, president, presided and following a brief address announced the program of events for the club during September, October and November.

Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs, director of music for the club, conducted a musical program, introducing Miss Lenus Daniell in a piano solo and Miss Vanita Walter in several violin numbers. Mrs. Irving S. Thomas announced a home-coming barbecue for October, sponsored by the house committee.

Mrs. E. B. Havis announced the cooking school for September 17, 18 and 19, and told some of the details of arrangements.

Summer Resume.

Mrs. Hornady gave a resume of the summer's activities as follows: Following the opening of the swimming pool in June, under the direction of Mrs. M. D. Farnham, as chairman, it is reported that during the summer months there were 6,643 paid admissions sold to the swimming pool. The amount received from tickets, lessons and renting of towels totaled $1,035.80. One hundred and twenty-six teas were given during the summer months with a total attendance of 10,283 guests. Luncheons given numbered 31 with guests lists including 704. A large reception was tendered the general assembly of Georgia with an attendance of approximately 250 guests. A tea was given in honor of the president with over 200 present. The membership committee reported 16 new members taken in during the summer months. The resolutions committee read memorial resolutions upon the death of the late Mrs. Francis Smith Whiteside, a valued member of the club.

Fall Program.

Mrs. Hornady announced the following official events for the club during September, October and November: September 17, 18, 19, cooking school, auditorium, 10:30 a. m. to 12 m. September 24, afternoon bridge party, sponsored by decorations committee; September 27, official tea, sponsored by international relations department. September 30, classes begin in interior decorations. October 8, home-coming barbecue, 6 p. m., on club grounds, sponsored by house committee. October 14, regular meeting; subject, "Horticulture." October 16, evening bridge party, sponsored by membership committee. October 23, official tea, sponsored by garden division. November 11, club birthday and regular meeting; speaker, Dr. M. L. Brittain. November 20, afternoon bridge party, sponsored by press and publicity department. November 29, official tea, American citizenship department.

Dates of classes in psychology, bridge playing and physical culture will be announced later. Departmental and divisional meetings will be announced through the press.

"The Store All Women Know"

THE HAWK

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS

Douglas Doring, a young British peer, is sent to Dartmoor prison on the preposterous testimony of a woman, an accomplice of a woman in love with him. In revenge, because he snubbed her advances, she swears she will kill a policeman during a night club raid.

Doring is a famous aviator, but to keep this knowledge from his mother and spare her worry he has been using the assumed name of Douglas Harris, and as Douglas Harris he is tried and convicted.

He is rescued from prison in spectacular fashion, right under the eyes of his guard, by persons unknown: is shaved and dressed in new clothes, and driven to the Gunter hotel, where, to his amazement, he is greeted by Cora. She has registered as his wife.

Cecily Warren, the girl Douglas loves, is also staying at the Gunter. She sees Doring, enraptured by Cora on his arrival, and jumps to the conclusion he must be secretly married. Frustrated and heart-broken, she leaves for London.

Douglas meets his father's old friend, Sir Arthur Cranston, in the lobby, and accepts his invitation to drive to London. He escapes from Cora, leaving a note, and immediately she wires James Malloran, well known amateur criminologist, to investigate the disappearance of Douglas. As Malloran is decoding the wire, Martha Peralta, Cecily's maid, calls. She is obviously in a state of excitement. He orders her to bring her mistress within a few days to a town called Mortvaig, in Scotland.

That night, while Doring is dining with the Cranstons, Malloran calls. Later Cecily comes in for bridge, not knowing Douglas is there. She grows excited when she hears a conversation by announcing she hears he is married.

In answer to a summons he goes to see Cora, and asks her to explain what is back of all this mystery. She refuses, but says she will meet her "chief" at a town called Mortvaig, in Scotland, where he is to report in a few days.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

DOUGLAS GOES HOME.

The village and estate of Doring was less than two hours' run by train from London, and by lunch time on the following day Doring stepped on to the platform of the station that bore his name. The station master stared at him, then hurried forward.

"This is a welcome surprise, m'lord. Well, there will be some excitement. We all thought you were still in Africa."

"And I'm thundering glad to get back," said Doring heartily. "I've got nothing to show you all this time. I'm afraid, I've been sick most of the time."

"There! There! Now there's only old Tostle's car to take you to the Towers. . . . Is there only this, m'lord?" he asked, as he took possession of the dressing case.

"Yes, thanks. The other stuff's coming on later."

There was the signalman to be given a bright word, and old Tostle, the possessor of a 20-year-old car that wheezed and rumbled up the hill.

In three minutes Doring Towers came into view—a stately Tudor mansion, screened by a wood that rose fanwise on the hill behind it. Doring's eye revealed again in the rich, undulating valley that for centuries had been the home of the Dorings. Two miles away, behind the hill, were the quarries, the revenues from which, under the careful stewardship of the Dorings, kept the valley prosperous and happy.

"I oughtn't to have fooled about with flying. My job is here," thought Doring. "Well, there will be no more flying for me."

The door of the house was opened by Craddock, the butler.

"Hello, Craddock! You've spotted me. How are you?"

He gripped the old butler by the hand and would almost have embraced him. Countless happy memories centered around Craddock.

"I knew you would come, m'lord. I knew you would come. A quick glance told Doring the old man was in a state of emotional excitement, but before he could say anything the butler added: "You'll let me prepare her ladyship—in case of shock. She's in her room. And—I'd like a word with you first, my lord. I have sent her ladyship five cables altogether, m'lord. Each from Capetown. The first said you had arrived safely."

"God God, Craddock! Do you know?"

"Yes, m'lord. I know where you've been these last five months. I was in court and heard that woman give evidence against you—and I knew all about Harris. His late lordship told me before he died, in case you should make some slip and her ladyship should find it out. You have made one or two slips, m'lord. Shortly before—it happened, right off a packet of letters about addressed to Mr. Harris."

"Well, I'm jiggered. It's frightfully lucky for me you did that, Craddock. But you couldn't have gone on having cables sent for ten years."

"I knew you would come, m'lord," repeated the old man confidently. "It's funny how one knows these things sometimes. Some special sort of sense, I suppose. Now, if you'll just wait here a minute, Master Douglas, I'll go and tell her ladyship."

A minute later he heard his mother's voice. "Don't hide, Douglas, dear!"

I'm not a nervous old wreck yet." He ran into the hall and kissed her. "How are you, dearest boy? Let me look at you. You've been ill. You told a servant to send me those cables. They read just like that."

"Well, there was no sense in sending you a temperature chart." "Oh, you're just like your father! I believe you've all been like that for centuries."

There followed long, lazy days, in which he rode about the estate or walked with his mother—days in which Dartmoor receded into an incredible past. The newspapers were still making much of the escape. Every day there was some fresh theory as to how Doug Harris had got away and what he was now doing. Doring read them with diminishing interest.

That brief respite would have been happy—but for the ever present consciousness of Cecily. As soon as he got back from that irritating visit to Mortvaig, his preposterous chief he would set about approaching Cecily with a view of telling her the whole truth. An irritating journey that would knock a hole in three days.

If he thought about Cora's chief at all he had lazily accepted the half-hearted explanation of Bill, the chauffeur—a rich bloke interested in your case. "Nice of the rich bloke, who must also be an eccentric bloke to employ Cora and a gang of highly disciplined crooks. All the same, it was a little irritating to have to traipse the whole length of the country to say 'Thank you.'"

It meant catching the 8:15 tonight and sleeping on the train. He reflected, as he wandered into the drawing room to rejoin his mother at tea.

Well, Douglas! I hear the trip was a washout. Rough luck! I've come down for three days' slack and I thought I'd run over and hear what really happened."

"Very good of you, sir. Nothing to tell, I'm afraid. You didn't bring Cecily with you?"

"O, she has no time to slack in the country with me these days," answered Warren with a laugh. "She's one of these independent young women, you know. She got a job the other day."

"A job! What?"

"Mr. Warren has just been telling me about it," said Lady Doring. "She helps people to furnish houses who don't know how to do it themselves."

"I don't know how it will work out," continued her father. "It's with an old established firm in Bond street. They gave her a trial the other day and apparently she satisfied them. They seem to have trusted her with quite a big job—they're sending her to Scotland tomorrow. There's apparently a millionaire at a place called Mortvaig."

Doring sat down his cup and stared at it. Mortvaig! An amazing coincidence! Suppose it should turn out to be the same man. An eccentric millionaire!

"It's a tiny town on the northwest coast," Warren was explaining. "I have actually heard of it."

There had been a hesitation as he spoke the last words, and the quality of the voice had changed a little. So, too, had the expression of the face. In a drawing room Warren was an elderly, amiable gentleman, with apparently plenty of money and no work. Yet it was known vaguely that he held some kind of position for the government that was believed to be of importance. For a moment Doring saw in him a man of vast, unsuspected reserves.

"It's on a dull patch of the coast," Warren was continuing. "Black hills—and bleak swamps, mostly."

"It seems a long way for a young girl like Cecily to go," said Lady Doring uneasily. "Aren't you ever anxious about her, Mr. Warren?"

"Frequently," replied Warren, "but I've learned it's no use interfering. She likes to gallivant around the country, and I can't stop her."

She must take her maid with her. She can manage Cecily better than I can. She happens to be a French woman, but she knows more about England than Cecil does. A regular dragon of a woman, I assure you."

Mortvaig! Doring said the word over and over again after Warren had gone. A dull patch of the coast, mainly bleak hills and bleak swamps. Surely there could not be two eccentric millionaires in such a spot!

SLAYER OF BOY TO BE GIVEN HEARING FIGHT BESSIE'S RIGHT OF FLYING

Alabama Deputy Surrenders Following Shooting of Schoolboy.

Ashtand, Ala., September 9.—(AP)—Jelly Guthrie, sheriff of Clay county, charged with the slaying of a schoolboy, 13-year-old high school youth whom the officer was said to have attempted to arrest on charge of violating the prohibition law yesterday, will be given a preliminary hearing tomorrow before Judge E. J. Garrison.

Guthrie surrendered to sheriff's officers following the shooting and was placed in the county jail pending the preliminary hearing. Funeral services for the youth will be held tomorrow.

Sheriff J. H. Allen said Guthrie told him the shooting was accidental. He said Guthrie had been in the schoolyard with the boy and was looking at the boy when Guthrie came upon the boy and a companion in a field near Ashtand.

Upon seeing the officers he continued, Guthrie said the boys began running and he fired two shots in the air to make them halt and when the third shot was fired he stumbled and the shot took effect in the back of Bailey's head, causing instant death.

At the place where they first saw the boys, Guthrie said a jug containing a quantity of whisky was found. This was corroborated by W. A. Alexander, deputy sheriff, at the time of the shooting.

Bailey was to have entered the sophomore class at the Clay county high school. He was a star athlete and a member of the football team last year and expected to play on the team this fall.

The ministers, practically all of whom have visited the scene of the slaying, were of the opinion that the case should be given further consideration. Two of them, in addition to signing the petition, wired the governor that Morrow to their knowledge had become a "devout and sincere Christian" during the past year.

Washington, September 9.—(AP)—After a week of conferences with officials here, Peter O. Knight, of Tampa, Fla., who is in Washington in the interests of various industries in his home state, said in a statement today that a proper understanding of the federal Mediterranean fly restrictions would permit many varieties of Florida produce to be shipped out of the state.

Mr. Knight told the Associated Press that there had been much misunderstanding as to the restrictions. He is continuing his conferences with agriculture department officials, Senators Fletcher and Tamm and others.

In his statement he explained that under existing quarantine regulations "there are no restrictions whatsoever governing the production and shipment of vegetables from Florida, with the exception of tomatoes, peppers, eggplants and Lima and Broad beans."

The agriculture department, he added, is now considering modification of the regulations so as to permit free movement of these products.

"Since no flies have been found in any of these vegetables," he said, "I am of the opinion that the agricultural department will finally decide that all vegetables are non-host and that there should be no restrictions of any kind against the movement of vegetables from Florida."

Divides State.

"Federal rules and regulations, effected September 1, governing the movement of Florida fruits and vegetables, divided the state into two areas, eradication and non-eradication. The following counties are designated for eradication: Alachua, Bradford, Clay, Duval, Levy, Ocala, Polk and St. Johns. The remainder of the state is the non-eradication area."

"The eradication area, watermelons, pineapples and all nuts can be grown anywhere in Florida at any time and shipped anywhere and everywhere throughout the United States. All vegetables of every kind and character, except peppers, tomatoes, eggplants, Lima and Broad beans, can be grown anywhere in Florida and shipped to any time anywhere in the United States."

SHATTUCK CANNY STORES COMPANY GIVES DIVIDEND

New York, September 9.—(AP)—Directors of F. G. Shattuck Company, operator of Shattuck's candy stores and restaurants, today declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, payable October 10 to stock of record September 20, placing the record stock at $1.00. The stock was split on a three-for-one basis. The old stock paid $2 annually.

Trading on most commodities rather dull yesterday, under a light demand, supplies were limited, with another sharp advance in price. Oranges are selling at steady prices, with the large, high quality continuing good. Grapes are not selling at steady prices with Tokyo, while Malaga, Red Malaga, Thompson seedless and Concord being offered. Beans are commanding slightly higher prices. Beans are selling at $1.00 a bushel, plentiful supply, with shipped stock selling at slightly lower prices.
